WHEN HANK GOWDY WAS TAGGED OUT

In the eighth inning Speece went in to pitch for the Senators. Jackson beat out an infield hit and stole second. Gowdy singled, and Jackson was held at third, but scored when Speece threw out Ryan at first. Gowdy going to second. Hank got to third after Liebold caught Lindstrom's fly. Then the lanky Giants' receiver made for home on Frisch's liner to Speece, who snapped the ball to Ruel and caught Hank at the plate, as shown in the photo.

BIG AIRSHIP OFF FOR PACIFIC

Shenandoah Leaves Lakehurst, Bound for Western Coast

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 7.—The big air cruiser Shenandoah cast off from her mooring mast at the naval air station here and nosed south and west on the start of the longest air voyage she has ever made at 10 o'clock today.

Conditions were ideal for the start of a thirteen-day trip over 7,000 miles of the West and Southwest the longest air jaunt the giant cruiser has made.

Discovery of a twenty-mile wind at the 1,000-foot level, caused the dirigible to take the southern route, which will take the Shenandoah over Wilmington, Baltimore, Washington, Fredericksburg, W. Va.; Atlanta, Ga., Birmingham, Ala., and across Louisiana to Fort Worth, Tex.

Rear Admiral Moffett, commander of the Third Naval District, arrived from Philadelphia to make the westward journey with Commander Lansdowne and his crew of forty.

The Shenandoah will land at Seattle, Wash., for fuel and supplies for five days are aboard.

BRITAIN DEMANDS TURKS QUIT MOSUL FRONTIER

London, Oct. 7 (I.N.S.)—Great Britain today sent a sharp note to Turkey, demanding evacuation of the Mosul frontier by the Turks. This district was the scene of a recent clash between British and Turkish troops. Mosul is in Iraq and the centre of oil territory.

GRILLED IN DEATH OF BRIDE

Police Hold the Husband of Young Woman Who Died From Fractured Skull

Ricaldo Candiani of No. 238 Hanover street, North End, was held by the police today pending an investigation of the sudden death of his bride, Mrs. Sadie Candiani, twenty-seven years old.

The woman, who was beaten about the head, died at her home from a fractured skull. Her husband, who is a laborer employed by the Boston & Maine, was subjected to a long grilling by the police of Division 1.

According to neighbors the couple had been married five or six weeks. City Hall records show that the application was filed six months ago and the license never returned.

The husband ran to the streets half dressed, and encountering Patrolman McCool of Division 1 said his wife was very sick. He declared he had been awakened by her groans.

The policeman summoned an ambulance, and the woman was removed to the City Hospital, where she was pronounced dead.

Medical Examiner Magrath was notified, and after making a preliminary investigation, the husband was held.

The medical examiner announced the woman had died from injuries inflicted by someone who had beaten her viciously. Candiani was grilled by Inspector James Dennessey, homicide expert of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

"DEPORTED" WHISKEY WELL SAMPLED IN N. Y.

London, Oct. 7.—A shipment of 2,400 cases of whiskey brought from New York by the steamship Adriatic, which arrived at Liverpool Saturday, is found to have been liberally sampled, according to the correspondent of the Westminster Gazette who gives a White Star line official as his authority. The consignment was part of one of 5,000 cases sent to America for medicinal purposes two years ago.

PRISONER RUNS FROM GUARD AT SO. TERMINAL

South Station commuters were startled today when a military prisoner, being taken under guard from one of the harbor posts to Fort Slocum, N. Y., dashed for liberty.

The corporal and his prisoner were in front of the cigar stand in the terminal near the waiting room. The prisoner, who was handcuffed, suddenly darted into the crowd and headed for Dewey square.

The corporal drew his revolver, but a railroad policeman who was nearby warned him not to fire because of the danger of hitting some innocent person. Sheathing the weapon, the corporal gave chase and caught the fleeing soldier on Atlantic avenue, near Northern avenue.

CHINESE WIFE FIGHTS TO ENTER AMERICA

Arguments on whether or not the Chinese wife of an American citizen is admissible to the United States, were heard by Judge Lowell in Federal District Court today. The petitioner was Ng Lim, a Norwich, Ct., merchant, whose wife, Chin She was debarred from entering this country under the provision of the sea ona "gift" law passed when born in the United States, went to China some time ago and married. He brought his wife back with him, but the woman was held up by the Immigration Service. In taking the matter under consideration, Judge Lowell said if there was any way he could see to admit the woman he would do it.

Samoset CHOCOLATES "CHIEF OF THEM ALL"

LUDLOW CHIEF CAUGHT WITH 'ALKY' IN CAR

Springfield, Oct. 7.—Chief of Police O. G. Cash of Ludlow will face a Federal complaint before United States Commissioner G. W. Gordon Thursday, it was announced today, following a search made of the chief's car by Federal dry agents, when a jug of alcohol was found.

The search was made without a warrant and on information telephoned to the officers, it is said.

Chief Cash refuses to discuss the case. In explaining the case yesterday he said he had started to destroy a lot of seized liquor stored in the Ludlow police station when he remembered a promise to obtain some alcohol for the radiator of an automobile owned by relatives. He filled a jug with alcohol and was on his way when held up.

He will be charged with illegally transporting liquor.

SOVIET TO KILL THREE ESTHONIANS

Leningrad, Oct. 7.—M. Rosefeld, secretary to the Esthonian consul, Remmenikoff, a former officer, and Funke, a photographer, have been sentenced to death after trial for espionage on behalf of Esthonia. Following disclosures made in court the tribunal ordered the raising of criminal proceedings against M. Tomberg, the Esthonian consul; M. Taouk, vice-consul, and a number of other officials of the consulate.

The death sentence had been carried into effect against the former officers, Loutzko and Jillneki, who were convicted of furnishing information regarding the army to Polish and French military authorities.

McGRAW WORRIES HARRIS

Calls Big Fellows Into Secret Council, an Old Trick, Just Before Battle

Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 7.—The bell rang for the fourth battle of the World's Series today under a smiling sky, but in the presence of Senators who were smiling not at all.

George Mogridge was announced by Manager Harris as the Senators' siege gun for today's game.

For the Giants McGraw warmed up Barnes, Bentley, Baldwin and Dean, finally sending Barnes out on the rubber hill.

With a one-game edge peering at them from the Giants' locker and a hurling staff shot full of holes, the boys from the nations' capital realized that they had their work cut out for them if they were to topple McGraw's men and come back even-Stephen.

COMEDIANS ACTIVE.

Only those two gifted Shakespearian actors, Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, bore dull care lightly when the Senators sprayed themselves about under the lee of glowering Coogan's Bluff and began the exercises of the day.

Altrock and Schacht were bent on doing bigger and finer things. While the Isaac Gothamite mused with laughter, the two diamond buffoons shot craps at first base with a pair of baseballs. Altrock losing his shoes and cap before the game ended.

Then they played several holes of golf, Altrock using his straight man's head as a tee. They skipped the last seven holes and lined up pellgell for the nineteenth, after which they were chased into the wings.

McGRAW'S OLD TRICK.

McGraw pulled a little "deep stuff" on his youthful opponent Harris, just before the curtain went up, by corralling all his gambling Giants and rushing them into the clubhouse as if for a big secret conference that would mean trouble.

Harris appeared worried for a moment, but his older employes who had seen that "worry" stuff pulled before reassured him and convinced their boss that it was a little stage "business." McGraw having lived close to Broadway all his life.

Strangely enough, today's balance of wellers seemed to go to the Senators. Gotham as never an under-dog town, even when a New York team is the underdog, so it was taken as evidence that more than a few Washington supporters held the seat stubs today.

"Pordham Frankie" Frisch drew the biggest Giant hand, for his circus work of yesterday. An ovation was also given Roger Peckinpaugh when, with a pronounced limp, he threw himself into the practice just before game time.

POLL POINTS TO G. O. P. LOSS IN RHODE ISLAND

On figures collected by Boston American reporters in the city of Pawtucket, R. I., the Republican party appears to be about to lose a great many of its former supporters in that neighborhood.

The manner in which former Republicans of Pawtucket have marked straw ballots in the Boston American's Presidential Preference Poll shows that out of 246 thirty-six will vote for John W. Davis

4 WHITE STAR LINERS PICKED FOR HUB PORT

The port of Boston is coming back. Today the Boston office of the White Star line announced that early next year four big passenger liners will resume sailings between Boston and Liverpool. They are the Adriatic, the Baltic, the Celtic and the Cedric. This is even better service than before the war, when only three vessels, the Arabic, the Republic and the Cymric, ran between Boston and Liverpool.

MASKED TRIO HOLD UP AND ROB AUTO COUPLE

Providence, R. I., Oct. 7.—Percy R. Matteson, commander of the Warwick Post, American Legion, and a young woman companion, were held up and robbed by three masked men armed with pistols while motoring on the Cowesett road. Matteson was robbed of about $50. The robbers took a ring from the young woman and also a watch, but returned the latter to her. To prevent pursuit they removed two spark plugs from Matteson's machine.

PREFERS JAIL RATHER THAN TELL ON KLAN

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Mark Haddell, editor of a weekly publication, refused today to state in court whether he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan and was declared in contempt by Judge Peter Maul during John Doe proceedings against the Klan.

"I'd rather go to jail and have my conscience clear than answer the question," Hubbell declared. Judge Maul deemed the question proper and directed the witness to answer. Hubbell maintained his stand. Decision was deferred.

HONDURAN REBELS ROUTED BY FEDERALS

Washington, Oct. 7.—Revolutionary forces at Tegucigalpa under General Percira were routed Sunday by the troops commanded by Provisional President Tosta with heavy losses on both sides, it was said in a dispatch received today at the State Department.

General Percira, who had been welcoming terms, the advance of the government forces the message said, "turned on his heels and made a surprise attack."

AL SMITH IS IN BOSTON FOR BIG RALLY

Speaks Tonight With Walsh and Curley at Mechanics Hall Harmony Meet

"Al's here."

Governor Alfred E. Smith, the Idol of New York and a strong favorite with Bay State Democrats, arrived in Boston today.

He left Manchester, N. H., where he spoke last night, shortly after noon, arriving in Boston about an hour later. He was accompanied by Mayor Quinn of Cambridge.

Governor Smith was greeted by some of the Democratic leaders, and spent the afternoon in preparation for the big demonstration to be staged in his honor at the American House by the National Democratic Club of Massachusetts at 8 o'clock.

Fully 500 persons have been invited to the banquet, which will be in the nature of a love feast, with all the prominent Democrats of this State in attendance.

MARCH TO HALL.

After the banquet the whole company, headed by Governor Smith, Senator David I. Walsh and Mayor James M. Curley, will march to Mechanics Hall where a Democratic rally is to be staged at 8 o'clock. The chief speech will be made by the guest of honor, and addresses will also be made by Senator Walsh and Mayor Curley.

The program will make today a red letter occasion for local Democrats, the only fly in the ointment being the absence of John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President. Mr. Davis will be unable to attend the festivities, but assurances are given that he will tour the New England States with the exception of Maine and Vermont.

The banquet and rally will serve the purpose of demonstrating the harmony which exists in Democratic ranks. Word has been passed that every candidate on the slate will be given "ample consideration and opportunity in the campaign," and the dove of peace broods over the party.

GOING TO PROVIDENCE.

Tomorrow Governor Smith will go to Providence, on Thursday he will speak in New Haven, and on Friday he will deliver an address in Paterson, N. J. These, it is said, are the only speeches he will make outside of his own State during the campaign.

His speech at Manchester, in which he denounced the Republican administration, was enthusiastically received by a large audience. In opening his remarks he paid tribute to Sheriff O'Dowd of Hillsboro County, and then swung into a discussion of material issues.

TWO MEN HELD PRISONER ON RUM PIRATE

Montreal, Oct. 7.—Testimony that he was forced, on threats of death, to serve as second mate and give false statements in having the British schooner Lutzen entered with the registrar of shipping at Bermuda, was given today by Jack M. Morris, a Montreal farrier, in the Court of King's Bench where Captain Samuel Ford is on trial for piracy of the schooner's cargo of 4,300 cases of liquor.

Morris testified that he and a lawyer named Isaacs shipped as supercargoes on the schooner and that they were kept prisoners on the vessel while its cargo of liquor was being sold to rum smugglers. After the liquor had all been sold, Morris said, the Lutzen sailed for Bermuda. Morris declared that he was signed as second mate and Isaacs as third assistant.

Morris testified that the rum pirates had threatened to shoot him if he "mentioned one word" or failed to report to the Registrar of Shipping that "everything was O. K."

Norman Addiman, of Montreal, testified that 2,200 cases of liquor was the property of the Sidney Wine & Spirit Company and that the remaining 1,000 cases belonged to a Dr. Thom of Winnipeg.

WORK NEVER HEARD OF MORGAN' SALASKA PACT

Washington, Oct. 7.—Secretary of the Interior Work denied knowledge today of "the secret contract between J. P. Morgan's Alaska Steamship Company and the government owned Alaska Railroad," fixing division of freight rates between the two concerns on joint shipments which last night was made the basis of a campaign speech by Senator Wheeler Progressive vice-presidential candidate.

The Secretary said he was conducting an investigation to determine if there was any such contract.

CUNARD MEN BOOST USE OF BOSTON PORT

An informal dinner and reception on board the Cunard steamship Samaria, moored at East Boston, with 350 agents of the line present from all over the Eastern United States, was the background for an appeal for a wider use of the port of Boston as both arrival and departure point for tourists.

The guests were welcomed by Charles Stewart, Boston agent, and short speeches were made by Charles C. Dasey, passenger manager, and Frank H. Hannigan, manager of the third-class passenger department of the Cunard and Anchor lines in New York.

JANITOR SUCKED INTO MASONIC TEMPLE FAN

John W. Bartlett of Lynnfield Centre, sixty-two-year-old janitor of Masonic Temple, No. 81 Berkeley street, was drawn into a huge suction fan while at work in the building today.

He was released by fellow workers and taken to the Relief Hospital, where he was found to have suffered a compound fracture of the right arm and a scalp wound.

Idealism and Flying Religion in Schools Hang Him Twice Big Business Questions

Current Events

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1924, by Star Co.)

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, praising the Red Cross, suggests that wars be eliminated by "practical idealism." It is a beautiful abstract thought. For the United States just now, however, the best peace insurance would be found in ten thousand practical fliers, with first class machines to fly in, capable of carrying mail in peace, bombs and poison gas in war.

PRACTICAL power enables a nation to develop its "practical idealism" without being suddenly knocked over the head in the midst of its idealism.

IN A CALIFORNIA decision, the State attorney-general forbids, in public schools, even the Lord's Prayer in the way of religion. There is no doubt that the public school system should teach the three R's and other positive knowledge, leaving religious teaching to the discretion of parents.

IT IS WISE to keep all religious teaching or favoritism out of public schools. On the other hand, it is unwise and an outrageous interference with the rights of parents to tell them that they cannot, at their own expense, send their children to private or parochial schools where religion is taught—provided that educational requirements are met.

BISHOP HUGHES, presiding over the Methodist Episcopal Church, says that, apart from his general views on capital punishment, he would hang the Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, who killed his own wife to get another woman and made that woman kill her husband.

CAPITAL punishment is abominable, but an exception in its favor might well be made in the case of the Rev. Mr. Hight. If it were possible, he ought to be hanged twice, once for the double murder and once for disgracing a most noble, unselfish calling. They used to do that in Cairo, strangling a man almost to death a dozen times or more before killing him. They used also to saw criminals lengthwise for patricide.

WHEN you hear talk against "Big Business" as though it were a bad thing in ITSELF, ask a few questions.

Did you know that Canada and Australia are in a combination—properly—to help each other's business at the expense of the United States?

DID YOU know that Germany and France, enemies in other things, combine to regulate and maintain the prices that the United States must pay for fertilizer?

Are you aware that Czecho-Slovakia and Roumania are preparing a "trade defense pact?"

It is necessary to have "Big Business" to meet and compete with "Big Business" across the ocean, which is organized on an international scale.

LA FOLLETTE denies unnecessarily that he is working to cause a deadlock and throw the election of a President into the House of Representatives. If the election goes to the House, he cannot be chosen President, and he knows it.

He is working for an idea; that of independent action in politics; not for himself. There is no more unselfish figure in national politics than Senator La Follette, and enemies that lie about him know it. To pile up the biggest possible vote for the independent idea is what he wants—nothing else. After the treatment which he got from the California court his vote ought to be big.

THE DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE'S house in Piccadilly is to be pulled down—many Americans remember the yellow wall around it. The site will be occupied by apartments on the American plan, and an American architect, Thomas Hastings, will boss the job. Mr. Hastings is the man who got the gold medal from the King.

THE ENGLISH are willing to learn even from an American. They could learn a great deal about practical building from L. J. Horowitz, who is there now.

On big building operations in England they still have men crawling up ladders, carrying

GROOM IS HELD AS SMUGGLER

Weds the Girl Charged With Sending Him Saw With Which to Escape

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Oct. 7.—Before the vigilant eyes of armed guards from the county jail Ed St. Aubin, held on a Federal charge of smuggling Chinese over the Canadian border, and Miss Emerilda Gagne, pretty Montreal modiste under arrest for attempting to aid St. Aubin to escape jail, were married in Notre Dame des Victoires Church by Rev. J. M. H. Bastien.

Great secrecy surrounded the marriage of the two prisoners. They were driven in a closed automobile from the jail to the church with two jailers as escorts.

The strange wedding party was greeted at the entrance by a clergyman and quickly ushered to front pews. Not another soul except two witnesses and the guards saw the ceremony.

GUARDS IN MARCH.

No joyous bursts of wedding music attended the march of the party down the middle aisle of the church. One of the armed guards walked ahead of the bride and groom-to-be, and another brought up in the rear.

It was silent as a tomb within the edifice, for the voice of the officiating clergyman purred through the Latin of the nuptial office.

There were no flowers, no sumptuous wedding gown nor bridal veil, no group of smiling friends.

The ceremony at an end, St. Aubin turned toward his blushing young bride, clasped her in a loving embrace, and kissed her full upon the lips. Then both returned to cells in the County Jail.

Later in the day St. Aubin was taken to Rutland where he will face trial before the Federal District Court. His bride was held under bonds of $500 pending a hearing before Judge Henry Blodgett.

TRAPPED BY LOVE.

It was her abiding love for St. Aubin that led Miss Gagne, the police say, to fall into a trap set for her after discovery of a small saw and an automatic revolver in the alleged smuggler's cell, following a visit of the girl to the jail.

St. Aubin, arrested late in August, wrote to Miss Gagne in Montreal, the jail officials say, and advised her to come and see him. She did so.

Following her departure a jail trusty informed Sheriff Flint that the girl had left something with St. Aubin. A search of his cell disclosed the automatic pistol and a hack saw.

The prisoner steadfastly denied that his sweetheart had brought the weapon and saw to him.

Later he wrote a letter to the Gagne girl which he tried to smuggle out of the jail. The letter was intercepted by officers and a decoy was mailed in its stead.

TAKEN INTO CUSTODY.

In response to an ostensible plea of the prisoner that she come immediately to see him, the pretty modiste arrived at St. Johnsbury, went to the jail and was taken into custody.

Arraigned in court, she pleaded not guilty. Today she reiterated her innocence of the charge against her.

Soon after the pretty Canadian girl became a prisoner in the jail she told the sheriff of her plan to marry St. Aubin. Both prisoners pleaded that they be allowed to wed before the appearance of St. Aubin in court.

FRUIT GROWERS LOSE FREIGHT RATE FIGHT

Washington, Oct. 7.—An Interstate Commerce Commission examiner has recommended dismissal of the complaint of the California Growers and Shippers Protective League against present freight rates on fresh deciduous fruits other than apples from California to Eastern Transcontinental groups.

The association had asked that the rates of $1.62 and $1.73 be reduced to $1.44. The commission itself has not yet acted.

DARTMOUTH PRESIDENT EMERITUS VERY ILL

Dr. J. M. Tucker

Dr. Tucker, who is in his 88th year, came to the presidency of Dartmouth in 1893, succeeding Dr. Samuel Colcord Bartlett, and developed the college from the rank of a small New Hampshire college to that of a great national educational institution.

LOWELL WOMAN HELD AS DRUNKEN DRIVER

Lowell, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Myra B. Hawes of Tewksbury, wife of William Hawes, Lowell pawnbroker, was arrested early today after a race of two miles, during which, Patrolmen Timothy Mahoney and T. J. Riley assert, her automobile speedometer crept up to the fifty-mile mark and hung there until she whirled into a side street and snapped out her lights.

She is charged with drunkenness and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

ONE WIFE SUES FOR $25,000 HEART BALM

Another Asks Only $2,000 in Cases Started in Norfolk Court

Because she believes Esther D. Swett of Quincy so intrigued John W. Douse of Canton that he left home, his wife, Mrs. Ellen A. Douse, also of Canton, desires to collect from the Quincy woman.

Mrs. Douse wants $25,000 for alleged alienation of her husband's affections and is suing in Norfolk Superior court.

Ida Oppenheim of Quincy does not value her husband's affections so highly. Her price is a mere $2,000, which she seeks to collect from Rose Silva of Quincy, as the alleged love pirate.

A breach of promise suit was filed by Mary Reagan of Weymouth against Octave O. LaCasse of Weymouth for $5,000. The girl charges that LaCasse, after agreeing to marry her, refused to hold to his promise, although she was and still is willing to become his wife.

RENFREW MILLS CUT WAGES 12½ PER CENT.

Adams, Oct. 7.—Notices of a wage cut of 12½ per cent., effective October 12, have been posted at the mills of the Renfrew Manufacturing Company, with the explanation that market conditions make it impossible to continue operation unless labor costs are reduced. The notices also declared that with the wage reduction it may be possible to operate the mills three or four days a week and full time in some departments. In May, 1923, the company increased wages 12½ per cent.

Baltimore, Oct. 7.—William Gibbs McAdoo was resting comfortably today at Johns Hopkins Hospital, where he underwent an operation for the removal of gravel from the bladder.

STRIKERS SAY WOOD FAVORS WALTHAM CO.

C. L. U., If Charge Is Substantiated, Will Lay Case Before Secretary of Labor

Representatives of the Waltham Watch and Clock Company strikers will lay before the Boston Central Labor Union tonight their complaint that United States Commissioner Charles G. Wood has been prejudiced against them in his attempts to settle the strike.

Ernest Faulkner, president Irving Hall Co-operative and Secretary Maglave of the strike committee, and others were delegated to present the charges.

If the Union finds the charges are substantiated it will lodge a formal complaint with the Secretary of Labor at Washington.

The strikers say Wood's action in offering them a second time over their rejection a straight 7 per cent. wage reduction indicates that he favors the company.

Strikers are preparing their case for presentation at the fact finding hearing by the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration at Waltham City Hall at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

At that hearing the board will exercise its right to examine witnesses under oath as a means of definitely placing the blame for the strike. Attorney James H. Vahey of Boston, will represent the strikers, and the company will be represented by Choate, Hall & Stewart.

RUM-RUNNER BLOWN UP TO PREVENT SEIZURE

New York, Oct. 7.—The French schooner Marie Antoinette burst into flames and sank fifteen miles off the New Jersey coast early today as a revenue cutter was approaching the vessel to seize it as a rum-runner, it was learned today.

Two popular theories got knocked into a cocked hat when Anna D. Wood, a junior at Boston University College of Business Administration, was awarded a silver medal for having attained the highest academic standing out of a class of over 200.

For one thing, 50 per cent. of that class were men, commonly supposed to be the real winners in intelligence.

And for the other, Anna is married, with dishes to wash and clothes to mend, besides her lessons to get, which shows she can get away with two jobs successfully.

But she is busy doing it. When she was asked for an interview, she said:

"Sorry, I can't. Simply must study 'Reality' and it comes next hour."

PIER RAILROAD VALUE PLACED AT $310,000

Washington, Oct. 7.—Final value for rate making purposes of the properties owned by the Narragansett Pier Railroad Company, and used by the Rhode Island company for common carrier purposes, was found by the Interstate Commerce Commission today to be $310,000 as of June 30, 1916.

JOINT TRIAL IN POISON CASE IS SOUGHT

Illinois Officials Oppose Separate Indictment for Mrs. Elsie Sweetin

Mount Vernon, Ill., Oct. 7.—State Attorney [illegible] Thompson announced today that he would ask the Jefferson County Grand Jury, which it convened Monday to return a joint murder indictment against Lawrence M. Hight, former Baptist clergyman, and Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, confessed poison plotters. Hight and Mrs. Sweetin confessed they were married.

"There is no other course for the State to pursue, except to ask for [illegible] their duties so they might [illegible] such killing," said the prosecutor.

If [illegible] indictments are returned, he said, he expected Attorney R. F. Smith of Benton, retained to represent Mrs. Sweetin, would seek a separate trial for her. The State's attorney said he would insist on a joint trial.

Hight has taken no steps to prepare his defense. He has told [illegible] details he planned to ask the court to appoint a lawyer for him, as several times has intimated he expected to enter a plea of guilty and throw himself upon the mercy of the court.

WORCESTER MERCHANT KILLS SELF WITH GA

Worcester, Oct. 7.—John Partridge, 59, president and treasurer of the Partridges Paint Company, committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas from a tube attached to a bedroom jet in his home today. Motive was advanced by the family, who declared him in excellent health and spirits on yesterday.

10,000 Miles With a 1.69 Suit Case

BOUGHT IN

our Basement Store

The interesting tale of an ordinary-looking black enamel suit case, pictured here, on its return from a European trip of ten thousand miles—over half way around the world.

This remarkable suit case (for it must have been made of good stuff to stand such a trip) was purchased June 20, 1924, in our Great Basement Store.

During its European trip, which covered approximately 10,000 miles, it visited Southampton, London, Folkstone, Boulogne, Bale, Milan, Genoa, Pisa, Rome, Naples, Florence, Venice, Paris, Calais and other points.

The owner tells us that in all these travels the suit case received very rough usage, was never carried personally, but handled by porters, thrown on trucks, oftentimes under loads of other baggage—and in every other way subjected to all the usual wear and tear of such a trip.

This suit case may now be seen in the Leather Goods Department of our Great Basement Store, where new cases are now on sale at 1.69.

POLL SHOWS BIG G. O. P. LOSS IN RHODE ISLAND

Notable Harding-to-Davis Shift Indicated in Pawtucket Canvass

this year and thirty-six for Robert M. La Follette.

Reporters at work in the field find the textile towns, and the neighborhood of big cigar factories, they say, particularly responsive to the appeal of the Third Party. No extensive inquiry has been made as yet in the big shoe centres.

The number of Pawtucket folk who voted for Harding four years ago and who say that this year they will vote for the Democratic ticket, compose the largest "Harding to Davis" shift yet reported. In no single bloc, hereinfore, have they even been approached. Pawtucket Republicans who discussed the matter today attribute it to last Saturday night's speech by Mr. Davis in Providence. If it were not for that speech, they intimated, these votes —or most of them—might have gone to La Follette.

The figures from Rhode Island and New Hampshire appear to indicate that these States are as safely in the Republican column—so far as the Presidential contest is concerned—as Maine and Vermont.

HOPE FOR DEMOCRATS.

The Massachusetts figures tell the same story.

But there is also in these figures considerable ground for hope for the Democratic State tickets in Rhode Island and New Hampshire, and at least a suggestion that the Republicans are opening up their Massachusetts campaign on Senator David I. Walsh not a day too early.

It may have been the baseball excitement, but whatever the reason the twelfth day of the poll in Greater Boston brought a smaller total vote than has been turned in on any day since the vote-taking began.

BAY STATE VOTE.

The Massachusetts vote up to date:

Total	7,134
Coolidge	3,448
Davis	1,895
La Follette	1,791
Coolidge over Davis	1,553
Davis over La Follette	104
Coolidge trailing both together by	198
Shift of Democrats to Coolidge	269
Republicans to Davis	330
Democrats for La Follette	269
Republicans for La Follette	687
Others for La Follette	424

The bulk of the votes reported today under the East Weymouth heading were picked up in that neighborhood but included with the several Weymouths are stray votes from Hingham, Braintree and the Quincys. Hear the young lady who sends them in:

"This certainly has been an experience for me. Everybody told me these towns are 'straight ticket' places, but did you ever see such spitting! If my good advisers were correct about it, all I can say is, 'times have changed.' Lot of La Follette sentiment down here, most of it in the shops. Another thing that surprised me is that town officials, as a rule—be they Democrats or Republicans—favor Mr. Coolidge. Of course, I am telling no names."

Most of the La Follette vote in Waltham came from watch company strikers. When the G. O. P. managers study the returns from the big industrial centres they must be glad that—in New England, at least—there is a third ticket.

Little La Follette sentiment showed itself in the Newton Centre district and a visit to Mount Vernon, Pinckney and Myrtle streets and Ashburton Place found Beacon Hill strong for Coolidge.

La Follette Vote in Pawtucket Is Surprise

Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 7.—While Robert M. La Follette finished third in a pool of 398 votes in this smart industrial community, his vote nevertheless was a surprise to the investigators. The noticeable feature of the local poll is the unusually large number of Republicans who announce a determination to switch from Harding to Davis. The usual course is to jump all the way—to La Follette.

One day's straw balloting in Pawtucket:

POLICE SEIZE LIQUOR IN UNDERTAKER'S SHOP

Lawrence, Oct. 7 (I.N.S.).—About 150 quarts of choice Bacardi were seized by police at the undertaking establishment of Sebastino d'Amico at No. 192 Common street today. A squad led by Lieut. Officers Sweeney and O'Connell discovered the contraband hidden in a secret vault. D'Amico was arrested and will be arraigned tomorrow charged with illegal keeping. The police say he is connected with an international rum ring.

ALL-FRENCH EXPEDITION TO EXPLORE NORTH POLE

Paris, Oct. 7.—Another Arctic expedition, this time all French and headed by Jules de Payer, is to start for the Polar regions at the end of next March, according to Le Journal. The party will proceed in a specially equipped vessel to the Franz Josef Archipelago, whence an attempt will be made to fly across the North Pole.

GOSSIP OF BIG AND LITTLE POLITICIANS

Campaign Activities, Local and National, Now in High Speed

John W. Davis will spend today and tomorrow in Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo, N. Y.

* * *

Senator La Follette turns them away tonight in Scranton, Penn.; plays Newark, N. J., tomorrow night, and speaks in Detroit on Thursday, Cincinnati on Friday, and Chicago on Saturday. For the next four weeks the Wisconsin leader plans to make one speech per night.

* * *

"If I wanted this election to be thrown into Congress," Senator La Follette says, "all I would have to do is remain in Washington and take it easy.

"I am on tour for one purpose and only one purpose—to win in November."

* * *

Charles G. Dawes will say a few words today in St. Paul, Minn., and then head across Iowa for Wyoming. He'll be in Nebraska on Friday, and before coming back to Chicago will visit Kansas, Missouri and Central Illinois.

* * *

Beats all, how the candidates keep out of New England. Must be they know something. John W. Davis is due for the week will take in Wichita, Kan., four Oklahoma and four New Mexico towns, and Pueblo, Colo.

* * *

Copies of a booklet, "Official Information for Voters," will be mailed from The State House this week to 1,500,000 Massachusetts citizens.

But what good will it do, if YOU fail to get your name on the voting list? October 15 will be the last day for registration.

* * *

Question before the Women's Republican Club on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock: "How shall I vote on Referendum 2, the Child Labor amendment?"

For enlightening: Owen R. Lovejoy of New York, general secretary of the National Child Labor Committee. Argument in opposition: Bentley W. Warren, prominent Boston attorney.

* * *

Whenever in the Massachusetts Legislature efforts have been made to raise the school age, and prevent the employment of children under sixteen—the present Massachusetts limit is fourteen—the industrial interests have objected on the ground that they suffer from competition with Southern factories, which employ child labor without limitation. Representatives of these industrial interests have said that there 'ought to be a Federal law.' . . . And what are they saying, now? . . . To it is in a row about the "danger of tinkering with the Constitution."

* * *

If next Friday evening's Democratic city convention sees fit to select him, Mayor Joseph H. Gainer of Providence will take a renomination. The Mayor is serving his twelfth year in office. Providence city Hall wouldn't look natural without him.

* * *

"In almost six years—it will be six years in November—what has been accomplished in caring for the veterans and their dependants? Two hospitals here in New England—millions of your dollars spent—and neither of them yet fully completed.

"I was in Rutland only the other day, where the tubercular veterans are cared for, and they had only 136 patients. One great wing of that costly hospital given over to doctors, nurses and such, instead of to veterans. Why? Because no plans were ever made to take care of the office and staff. They simply 'built a hospital.' Was it to take care of itself?

"As bad as was Teapot Dome, as bad as were the Daugherty scandal and the disgrace of the Department of Justice, the worst crime of all is the way the helpless veteran and his dependants have been abused, mistreated, neglected, yes, forgotten. We have that to bear in mind."—Senator Walsh, in Lowell.

Ten Years of Jewelry Service To The Public

The first Kay Jewelry Store was opened just ten years ago, and proud as we are of the growth of the Kay Organization within that period of time it is not in mere growth alone that we take our greatest pride, rather in what this rapid growth indicates.

From the very modest beginning the Kay Stores have grown to a big national organization with its own wholesale buying and importing offices in Washington, D. C., employing many experts in every branch of the jewelry industry, all of which would be out of the question if we were operating only one store.

The great collective buying power of the Kay Stores brings to each individual store, values that would be utterly impossible otherwise.

We welcome the privilege of serving the people of Boston and vicinity in bringing to you the advantages of the Kay Organization, enabling you to own jewelry of guaranteed quality at a minimum cost and on the most convenient credit basis.

Elgin, Waltham, Howard, Hamilton and Illinois Watches all at standard prices on low credit terms.

The slogan "Your Promise To Pay Is Good With Kay" will soon be a "Buy" word in Boston as it has in all of the cities in which we operate jewelry stores.

Some of The Business Principles of The Kay Stores

Absolute equality to everyone

Plain figure price tickets

One price to all and that the lowest

Every article guaranteed

No sale complete unless customer is satisfied.

Absolute truthfulness in advertising

One price for cash or credit

Prompt adjustment of all complaints (if there are any)

Credit Terms to meet income of each customer.

Our constant aim is to place on the highest level the confidence of the public which we now enjoy, always watchful that in word or deed we shall preserve our most valued asset "The Good Name of the Kay Stores."

A Credit To All Boston

THURSDAY morning a new jewelry store will open its doors, a store that will be a credit to all Boston. It will be another link in the great chain of Kay Jewelry Stores now the largest retail jewelry organization in America.

In tomorrow's papers we will publish our opening announcement, but in this editorial advertisement we wish to present the history of the Kay Jewelry Stores and their business creed.

It is our aim to make buying here as pleasant as it is satisfying, recognizing that the customers' comfort and convenience is our first thought and that nothing but perfect satisfaction ever sealed a sale.

"Your Promise To Pay Is Good With Kay"

This slogan has become a "Buy" word in the fourteen cities in which we operate jewelry stores. It is not merely an advertising phrase, it is a slogan that means exactly what it says.

We believe absolutely in the history and integrity of the American people. Their promise to pay is sufficient with us. We do not have any hard and fast rules about credit, rather do we adjust the credit terms to suit the income or salary of the individual customer.

LA FOLLETTE IS CERTAIN G. O. P. WILL LOSE

In a Confident Mood as He Swings Into the Pennsylvania Mine District

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Senator La Follette left here to carry his campaign for the presidency into the anthracite region of Pennsylvania. He will speak tonight in Scranton and then will go to Newark, N. J., before turning West for a swing that is expected to take him to the Pacific Coast.

In his speech last night the Wisconsin Senator assailed the Republican administration, predicting that it would be overwhelmed at the polls in November. John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee for President, is running a poor third outside the "Solid South."

He advocated, among other things, revision or repeal of the transportation act of 1920, and the present tariff law, the repeal of the Soldiers' Bonus act, and substitution of a cash bonus.

DOUGLAS WILL LEAVES MONEY TO SERVANTS

Chauffeur Receives $5,000 and 2 Women Servants Get $1000 Apiece

A chauffeur and two other servants in the household of the late William L. Douglas, former Governor and shoe manufacturer, are remembered in his will filed in Dedham today.

Most of the estate, which will probably total several million, was left to his wife and children.

The chauffeur, Albert C. Blanchard, receives $5,000 and Catherine Byrnes and Mary Donovan, the other servants, get $1,000 each.

The only public bequest is $10,000 to the Universalist Church in Brookline, of which Mr. Douglas was a member.

Mrs. Miles K. Douglas will receive not less than $40,000 a year income from the estate, which on her death goes to their daughters, Mrs. Marion L. Russell of Needham, and Mrs. Amy R. Richmond of Brookline. She also receives the home on Hillside road in Brookline and the Summer home in Marion.

A niece and a nephew, Lester D. Moore and Alice Elsbree, receive $5,000 each, and a sister, Harriet F. Morse of Brookline receives $10,000.

Debutante Tea to Be Given Nov. 14 for Dainty Claire Parker

By BETTY ALDEN

ANYONE who has seen dark haired Claire Parker is likely to agree with me that the younger daughter of the James Amory Parkers is one of the prettiest debutantes of 1924-25.

Like her sister Virginia—one of the most prominent buds of two seasons ago—she has that high color frequently referred to as "ravishing" by our most vivid wielders of the pen, while her features are quite cameolike.

She is dainty as well as pretty, and will warrant the "sting" line will be very much on the qui vive when this bright-looking debbie whirls by them.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker are giving a tea to mark their daughter's debut, the affair taking place November 14 at the family's town residence, No. 81 Mt. Vernon street.

When Miss Virginia came out, a similar function was held at the Mt. Vernon street house. What a multitude o' gorgeous flowers had been sent the but for this occasion, transforming the house into a veritable bower of fragrant blossoms. For those of the younger set who came to pay their respects there was dancing, a feature seldom missing from any debutante function these days.

MRS. J. MOTT HALLOWELL

(Photo by Harcourt)

Mrs. Hallowell, of Chestnut Hill, is but one of the many prominent matrons "doing their bit" at Uncle Sam's Market Place being held on Copley Square this week, to aid disabled ex-service men.

MR. AND MRS. HOWLAND SEABURY, whose May 16 wedding at Emmanuel Church was one of the Spring's most important nuptial events, have been enjoying a visit to the Berkshires.

During their sojourn in that popular section Philip Ainsworth Means gave a dinner for them at "Bluefens," as his Stockbridge villa is known.

Mr. Means, a Harvard '15 man, who has more recently been making his Winter home in London, gave a dinner the other evening for the brother of the King of Siam, Prince Tiogaltpole, and the Princess.

The Seaburys, who spent their wedding journey abroad, have joined the year-round colony at Beverly Farms. Mrs. Seabury was formerly Miss Rosamond Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Wolcott Howe Johnson.

OTHER autumnal sojourners in the Berkshires include Mr. and Mrs. Gorham Brooks and their young family, who are in Lenox with her aunt, Miss Mary Aspinwall Tappan, at "Tanglewood."

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, who passed the summer months at Dublin, N. H., are to remain throughout October at "Tanglewood," where none of the entertainments of former days have been held this season.

It was early in the Spring that Mrs. Brooks' mother, Mrs. Richard C. Dixey, passed away at her Beacon street home.

For many years Mrs. Dixey had made her summer home at "Tanglewood" with her sister, Miss Tappan. Her passing away was keenly felt in Lenox, where she had been noted for her interest in art.

Society Notes

MRS. FREDERICK H. GILLETT, who is returning to Springfield this week to remain until after election, gave a tea in Washington the other day for Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, wife of the counsellor of the American Embassy to Germany.

Miss Phyllis Rich, who has been visiting in New York, had luncheon at Sherry's with her fiance, Robert B. Bradley and his mother, Mrs. Charles Bradley. Miss Rich and Mr. Bradley are to be married October 25 at the Marlboro street home of her mother, Mrs. Charles J. Rich.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Chaffoux of "Willowbank," Beverly have been making a brief stay at Poland Springs, following their motor trip through the White Mountains.

Mrs. Edward M. Wold of Beacon and New York is on the bench show committee for the dog show to be held at Ocean Park October 18, under the auspices of the Kennel Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. MacNichol, after a Summer spent abroad, are for passing the late season at the Amory cottage at Beverly Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyon Weybourn have concluded their season at the Farms and returned to their winter home on Marlboro street.

AIR MONOPOLY ATTACKED BY RADIO MEN

Washington, Oct. 7 (I.N.S.).—The cry against monopoly—a plea that the air be kept free for the use of millions of Americans who nightly derive their principal entertainment from radio—was raised today at the opening session of the third radio conference of the United States.

Led by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who is to radio what Kenesaw Mountain Landis is to baseball, nearly 1,000 radio leaders of the country protested against control of aerial communication by any central group.

Addressing the conference, Hoover said:

"It would be unfortunate, indeed, if such an important function as the distribution of information by radio should ever fall into the hands of the government.

"It would be still more unfortunate if its control should come under the arbitrary power of a group of persons.

"The government has already launched into an investigation of alleged monopolies in the manufacture of radio equipment, and the Department of Justice is making a probe of the situation.

"Hundreds of letters have poured into the Department of Commerce demanding that the government exercise its power against illegal use of the air."

For two years radio has been regulated by a voluntarily-established self-government, and the experiment has been successful, delegate and government officials declared today. The conference will recommend another year of voluntary rule.

Windjammer Relic to Be Cafe Outside 12-Mile Limit

Los Angeles, Oct. 7.—Refitting of the four-masted schooner William Bowden, relic of windjammer days, for use as a cafe and dance hall outside the twelve-mile zone, is under way in the harbor here.

When completed the schooner-cafe will take up a position somewhere off Redondo, south of here, according to F. C. Bigelow, who purchased the Bowden in San Francisco recently.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY TO PUT UP FIGHT

Premier Moves to Checkmate Liberal and Conservative Opposition

London, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Prime Minister MacDonald, addressing the annual conference of the Labor Party which opened in Queen's Hall today, confirmed the over-night indications that the government intends to resist the vote of censure advanced by the Conservatives and the Liberal amendment proposing an inquiry into the circumstances under which the sedition charges against a Communist editor were recently abandoned.

Mr. MacDonald indicated the Government would not shrink from a dissolution and an election if put to the test, and declared the responsibility for an election would not be the Labor Party's.

Addressing the conference of the Labor party at its opening in Queen's Hall today, Premier MacDonald scored Communism, which he declared had in it nothing practicable.

"It is a product of Czarism and war brutality," he said, "and as such we will have nothing to do with it. Unless we are prepared to engage against this, we had better put up our shutters."

The Prime Minister's address was loudly applauded by the conference, which adopted unanimously resolutions congratulating the new government on its record, approving its handling of the Irish situation, applauding its recognition of Soviet Russia, and offering "our fullest support and encouragement to the Premier, the Cabinet and the Parliamentary party."

Duel With Sabres Fought, Both are Wounded

Buenos Aires, Oct. 7 (A.P.)—Dr. Thomas Le Breton and Deputy Molinari were slightly wounded after a brief encounter in an affair of honor at midnight. The duel was fought with sabres.

Deputy Molinari was challenged by Dr. Le Breton on account of the publication of an article which the latter considered offensive. Dr. Le Breton tendered his resignation as Minister to the President in order to fight.

Molinari has also been challenged by three members of the Chamber of Deputies who took umbrage to similar articles.

CHARGE BROKEN NECK WAS RESULT OF FEUD

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 7.—Fletcher Mills, of the football team at the Yazoo County Agricultural High at Benton, is at liberty on $1,000 bail, pending a hearing on a charge of assault, Alfred Hicks, of the Belzoni High team, sustained a broken neck when he was tackled by Mills in a game at Belzoni Friday.

Too authorities charge that shortly before the game Mills told a friend he would "get" Hicks.

CHEKIANG TROOPS BEATEN, FALL BACK

Shanghai, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Sungkiang, 22 miles southwest of this city, has been captured by General Sun Chuan-Fang, Military Governor of Fukien, and the Chekiang troops are retreating on Singchiaw, nine miles from Shanghai, according to Fukien advices.

It is believed this may compel the Chekiang defenders of Shanghai to withdraw from the Hwangtu-Liuho front.

HI-JACKERS ROB COHASSET MAN OF $400

Hold Up Auto, Thinking It Contained Rum; Find Money Instead

Three hi-jackers, who follow straight banditry as a side line, held up George Salvatore of Cohasset at the points of revolvers early today in the blackest part of the Hingham-Cohasset road.

Salvatore lost $400, but figures he saved $600 and a large diamond stick pin. Ten minutes before he had changed his clothing at home, had put his stickpin and had split a $1,000 roll, taking only $400 with him.

According to Salvatore, the three road agents stepped from the bushes bordering the road and flashed revolvers in the light cast by his machine.

They confided that they were hijackers, but Salvatore was slow to hear, they searched him and took the $400. Then he was allowed to proceed.

Police believe that the same men appeared to be foreigners, are members of the gang that have been posing as prohibition agents and revenue men, reaping a large harvest in booze and money from frightened bootleggers on the South Shore.

RED BLOOD MAKES ALL OUR STRENGTH

WHAT gives every man his strength? Red blood. What makes the vibrant beauty of woman? Red blood.

Red blood is the driving force of life. If we lack strength we should think first of our blood. We should create more red blood. Then, through the new vitality that comes with rich, red blood, we quickly regain lost strength and vital nerve power. Weak men and women can find an easy, safe way to create red blood. Then, as the blood is nourished, they will find strength quickly returning.

Wincarnis gives to the blood the very elements from which red blood is created. For fifty years this blood builder has restored exhausted, nervous, pale, thin sufferers.

If your body vitality is at a low ebb go to your druggist today and begin the safe Wincarnis treatment. A 12½ ounce bottle, which is a ten days Wincarnis treatment, is sold by all leading druggists for $1.10. Double size, $1.80.

Wincarnis is so effective that only three tablespoonfuls a day need be taken. Try Wincarnis at once and realize the new strength just a few days will bring.

EDISON SEEKS CAPITAL TO WIPE OUT DEBTS

Shares in the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, will be offered for sale at $155, if the request of the company before the State Department of Public Utilities to authorize an issue of additional capital stock of $7,785,700 is granted.

The sale would net the company $12,067,835, of which they declare $1,250,000 would retire Boston Electric Light Company bonds, which matured September 1.

The sum of $10,817,835 would retire an equal amount of floating indebtedness, it is stated.

LOEB STRIVES FOR SUCCESS IN PRISON

Tells Mother During Her Visit That His Viewpoint Has Changed

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 7.—For the first time since he has been imprisoned for life for the kidnaping-murder of Robert Franks, Richard Loeb saw his mother, Mrs. Albert H. Loeb, when she visited him in the State penitentiary.

Obedience and cheerfulness were urged by the mother, who told him: "Our father and I and all the rest of us are hoping and praying for your welfare. You'll try to do your best now, won't you?"

"I have a different viewpoint now," he said. "I've changed. I see things a little differently here. Now my ambition is to get along in prison. I'm striving for success down here."

The father, a vice-president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., who remained at the Loeb Summer home in Charlevoix, Mich., during the trial and who has never seen his son since his arrest, is in Chicago. He is suffering from heart trouble.

U. S. PRINCESS TO DIVORCE HUSBAND

Pignatelli's Wife Resents Challenge of American Youth Over Her

By C. F. BERTELLI

Paris, Oct. 7 (Universal).—Princess Pignatelli of Aragon today confirmed to Universal Service that she is seeking divorce from the Prince following the sensational incident at Biarritz in which the Prince is alleged to have challenged Andrew Reid of Baltimore to a duel. She furthermore acknowledged that young Reid was the reason for the divorce, but said:

"I cannot do not say that I am getting a divorce in order to marry Reid. Andrew and I went to school together. My husband simply had one of his absurdly jealous fits.

"As to his challenging Andrew to fight a duel, why he is always challenging somebody to a duel. It is one of his favorite stunts. But he never sent his seconds to Andrew and therefore the challenge according to the code, is not legal."

Reid, who during the war was a well known aviation design expert, refused to the interview, nodding his approval.

To confirm to the best information the Prince, who is one of the grandees of Spain, and not one of the Italian branch of the family as first reported, is living at St. Jean De Luz. The Princess and Reid said that the incident leading to the challenge did not happen in the Casino at Biarritz, but in the street opposite the Casino.

MYSTERY IN WHISKEY THEFTS ON S. S. ADRIATIC

New York, Oct. 7.—White Star Line officials were at a loss today to explain how "samples" had been taken from a shipment of 5,000 cases of whiskey that left New York on the Adriatic September 27, as reported in London dispatches. The cases received two years ago had been kept in a bonded warehouse rather than on a quay, officials announced. A few days before the Adriatic sailed, it was said, the cases were taken to the pier by truck under guard, each case weighed and sealed by the customs authorities. The company asserted that the cases were received and shipped as sealed packages.

CHURCH DELAYS ACTION ON FOSDICK RESIGNATION

New York, Oct. 7.—The presbytery of New York received, but delayed action upon the resignation of the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, the Baptist preacher of modernist ideas who, for five years, has held an assistant ministership in the First Presbyterian Church of this city.

The resignation was Dr. Fosdick's answer to the request of the Presbytery that, in accordance with a ruling of the general assembly five months ago, he should renounce his Baptist membership and become a Presbyterian or relinquish his association with the local church.

COOLIDGE URGES LIBERAL POLICIES FOR RAILWAYS

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 7.—"Speedily constructive policies and liberal attitudes" are necessary in dealing with electric railway problems, President Coolidge declared today in a letter to the American Electric Railway Association convention. Coordination of all forms of local transportation, including busses, must demand the attention of municipal authorities and transportation companies for a long time to come, he declared.

Elenore Meherin Analyzes 'Youth Problem'

Famous Writer Lifts Curtains of New Mode in Morals in "Nora Lee," Her Latest Work

In her forthcoming story, "Nora Lee," Miss Elenore Meherin will give to Boston American readers, without question, the most excellent product that has come from her pen. As a story, a work of fiction, it is enthrallingly interesting. As an analysis of present day social conditions it is a masterly revelation. As deeply impressed as was the public by her story, "Chickie," and after that, "Denny Brooks," it is not too much to say that "Nora Lee" will stir even more deeply into this "youth problem" of 1924. The first installment of Miss Meherin's latest work will be published in the Boston American tomorrow.

MARRIAGE—motherhood—morality—what are the young girls of today doing with these?

Flinging them over, that they may walk more gaily the ways of joy?

Or merely seeking new styles in virtue; new brands of love that will better suit the soul and the tastes of the modern feminine type?

Everyone is asking the question. Every circle has its childless couples; its flippant divorcés; its free love advocates.

Does it all mean that women are heading for destruction and taking the race with them? Does it mean that the "good girl" of other days is a fast vanishing species?

"Chickie," Elenore Meherin's never-to-be-forgotten story, stormed the hearts of thousands of readers with one answer to this problem.

"Nora Lee," the Boston American's new serial, has a second answer more piercing—perhaps more terrible, because it comes so close to the life of the average girl. Nora Lee is one of these almost tragic modern types—vital with charm, gay and sophisticated. She wanted love that comes with a laughing heart; wanted adventure filling a golden goblet.

But underneath she wanted, with a primitive passion, a man's heart and spirit as completely as any woman of the older days ever demanded utter fidelity.

Was Nora Lee equipped to hold the man she loved—equipped even to win him? Are the girls of this lax and easy-going generation gritty enough and deep enough to hold a man of strength and fire?

What Price, These Petting Parties and Familiarities?

Has their freedom spoiled them? Have petting parties and familiarities robbed them of the capacity for sweeping and worth-while emotions?"

"Yes!" is the answer given by divorce statistics; the diminishing birth rate; the wholesale drinking parties.

"No!" is shouted with equal force by the young themselves. They say to mothers and fathers: "We are as good as you were. We're only different. We have our standards. Give us a chance to try them out. Maybe they'll take us further than yours."

Nora Lee was 16 or 17 when she first came into contact with all this high-throbbing, vivid young life of the girls and boys of this age. She was born in the shadow of a great tragedy—one of those terrible and pathetic loves that tear the heart in two. This was the love of her beautiful mother, Margaret, for a man who was married. Nora Lee was 10 when the thing started.

She grew up with a secret terror and a shame of this affair. Then suddenly she found herself in the seething world of today; the world of flappers and cocktails; free souls and reckless hearts. The thing Margaret counted such an anguish in her life, these new and enlightened ones regarded with debonair indifference. They whispered with bright, malicious joy: "Well, can't beat Nature, can we?" They cheered for the new single standard—equal immorality for all!

Don't Look for Truth When You Ask Them; They Won't Give It

Nora Lee was filled with tumult. Not for her this boasting wildness. For she already loved. There was a night of silver stars and moonlight—a night of youth and love. Young Dane Herrick held Nora Lee's hand. From a heart bursting with pain and joy Nora Lee whispered: "Dane, love is so beautiful. Would it hurt if you and I should kiss each other?"

WOMAN MAY HOLD KEY TO MURDER

Dry Law to Produce Inferior Race, Expert Says

WEAKLINGS TO SURVIVE, HE FINDS

Cornell Doctor's Experiments Show Puny Individuals Are Killed Off by Alcohol

By GRACE DESCHAMPS.

Will Prohibition produce a physically inferior race in America?

Dr. Charles R. Stockard, of Cornell University School of Medicine, after a study of the effects of alcoholism on the lower animals, says it will.

Alcoholism kills off weak embryos and weak offspring, declares Dr. Stockard, and in four generations produces hardy individuals, stronger physically than the descendants of total abstainers.

He makes this finding after a laboratory investigation extending over thirteen years.

Using pedigreed guinea pigs, their germ cells and glands corresponding in position to those of man, Dr. Stockard has traced the succeeding generations of alcoholic and non-alcoholic parents and secured records from 5,000 animals.

The guinea pigs treated with alcohol were placed in specially designed treatment tanks and subjected to alcohol fumes for varying lengths of time each day.

Several of the guinea pigs were given this treatment for as long as six years and lived the maximum span of a guinea pig.

In the immediate generation the offspring of abstinent guinea pigs showed a marked advantage over those of alcoholic parents.

A large percentage of the offspring of alcoholic parents died before and after birth and many of the surviving showed structural defects.

In the second generation twice as many offspring died before birth as among the offspring of abstinent parents.

In the third generation of tainted guinea pigs, 69 per cent. were barely enough to survive and actually produced better progeny than the grandchildren of abstinent animals.

In the fourth generation, fewer offspring resulted among the descendants of tainted animals, but these had greater strength before and after birth and produced specimens far superior to those of non-alcoholic ancestors.

In the abstinent group, there was much greater fertility, but the weak and the subnormal were not eliminated and each generation averaged lower physically than the preceding.

Society's Plans for Fall Are Upset by Impending Visit of Prince

Daring Horsewomen Among Boston Girls Will Lead Prince Over the Jumps

Who will captivate the Prince?

Will it be mannish Eleonora Sears or demure Olivia Ames, two of the richest society girls in all the world? Or will it be some dainty society miss who has just made her debut, a ballroom queen, but yet to win her spurs as a society favorite?

Society folk, who today confess that their plans for the Fall season have been knocked into a cocked hat by the impending visit of royalty, favor the "dark horse," but admit one thing:

Eleonora Sears and Olivia Ames will give the Prince a thrill when they ride over the trail with him behind the hounds at the royal fox-hunts in Hamilton this month.

WILL OPEN HIS EYES.

Whatever Edward Albert has seen of American womanhood, he will encounter something new in femininity when he meets some of the Boston girls. Boyish and reckless of disposition, his eyes will open when the unconventional Eleonora leads the way over the jumps.

Miss Ames, on the other hand, he will find a mixture of the athlete and the demure girl. Long rated as the richest of Boston belle of society girls, she is both an expert horsewoman and a daintily miss.

SKILLED AND WEALTHY.

There are others who will show the Prince some dashing horsemanship, including Miss Mary Curtis, Miss Alice Thorndike, Mrs. Clarence Hay, Mrs. Charles S. Bird, Jr., Mrs. Oliver Wolcott, Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., his hostess, and others.

Both Miss Sears and Miss Ames are among the six best women riders in Boston society. Both possess unlimited wealth. Both enjoy exalted social positions, and not a horseshow or fashionable hunt but finds both entered or among the guests.

Miss Ames is noted for her sweetness of manner. She wears dainty clothes, even when astride a horse. When gowned, she is seen in somber shades. She is better known both in society and publicly than any other young woman of her set, except Miss Sears.

When Olivia Ames was introduced to society, at a ball in her home at the Copley Plaza, the ballroom was adorned with tapestries valued at $250,000. There were 600 present, and they danced until five in the morning, with a breakfast at half-past four.

WILL TAKE ANY DARE.

Eleonora Sears is unconventional. She shocked society long ago by appearing on the street in riding breeches. She accepted a dare one afternoon in Boston and went on the stage as an "extra" at a matinee of one of Blanche Ring's plays at the Majestic Theatre.

She was among the first of her sex to take up polo. She is a champion woman boxer, expert swimmer, squash and tennis player, and a huntswoman with few equals. She is of a branch of the same family of which Mrs. Ogden Packenham, Jr., the former Phyllis Sears, is a member.

As both young women are fine tennis players at the Myopia Hunt Club, they will doubtless be among the guests who will meet the Prince of Wales. Miss Sears has a Summer estate at Beverly Farms and Miss Ames' family owns all Tinker's Cross Island.

Neither girl has been engaged, although gossip long has it that Miss Ames was waiting for Harold S. Mike" Vanderbilt.

DRY LAW MISREPRESENTED SAYS ANTI-SALOON HEAD

Charging misrepresentation of facts by opponents of Referendum No. 2—the Prohibition enforcement issue—William M. Forgrave, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League sold today at Newton Centre Baptist Church: "If the Massachusetts voters do not accept the responsibility placed upon them by the 18th Amendment submitted and three times agreed to by Massachusetts, the Amendment, according to the United States Supreme Court, is in effect nullified and, according to the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, the State will have shirked its duty.

WOMAN MAY HOLD KEY TO MAN'S SLAYING

A woman was brought today into the mysterious murder of an unidentified man, whose weighted body was found in Norwood Pond, Beverly, and who, it is believed may have been slain by the same band that killed F. A. Clements, Burlington garage owner.

It was revealed today that the police investigating the two murders intend to question a woman intimately in their information relative to the supposed use of the Clements garage as a depot for stolen automobiles.

As a result of their investigations the Middlesex County authorities have arrived at the conclusion that to the garages auto thieves and rum runners found a haven and that here stolen cars were disguised by the gang. The authorities have also reached the following conclusions:

POLICE THEORIES.

The gang murdered Clements during an argument over their work, weighted his body and dropped it in the Shawsheen River, where it was found.

One of the gang got cold feet following the murder and threatened to tell the authorities.

The others then murdered him, dropping his weighted body into Norwood Pond.

The fact that the engine hood used to weight this man's body had the number blocked off is one of the clues on which authorities base their theories.

WILL GRILL YOUTH.

Hollis Mowbray, 18, employed at the Clements garage, and who has confessed he helped dispose of the body of his employer, will be questioned as to the appearance of the men he says actually committed the murder. This may reveal that one of them is the man whose body was dragged out of Norwood pond.

SPORTING AMERICAN

A Complete Story of the Ball Games in the American Special Box Score. Nothing Like It This Side of Chicago

BOTH GIANTS AND SENATORS LOOKED BAD IN THE 3RD GAME

PITCHING DISPLAY TERRIBLE

By NICK FLATLEY

New York, Oct. 7.

THE Giants and Senators both looked bad yesterday. The National Leaguers were shaky and uncertain in the field. Lindstrom and Jackson played poorly on a couple of ground balls, while Kelly let a fly drop safely in center that he should have tucked in his pocket. The Senators were just as bad at the bat though, and could not take advantage of countless openings. They would have had a whole flock of runs except for Frankie Frisch who is showing enormous crowds that he's one of the greatest living ball players. Frankie robbed those Goslin of exactly three base hits in that third game. Each struck pretty when runs were anchored on the pillows, too. Twice the Flash ran in an right center and hauled down fast flies that were scored hits when they left the bat. No other infielder could have reached either one of them, and they were too short for the outposts. Then Frankie, to make the day complete for New York, snared a wickedly slashed bounder in his mitten and retired the side.

* * *

THE pitching display was terrible. Marberry, who opened for Washington, didn't have a thing but home. We will always wonder why Harris let him stay in as long as he did. After Bucky, in too much of a hurry to make a double play, had contributed an error that presented New York with a one of runs in the second, his famous relief-hurler was helpless. Had he been pitcher kicked then the game might have been rescued. But he lingered until a few passes had threatened and other score or so, and gummed up the works. Russell, Speece and Martina, who followed along, didn't show enough to make any other league managers jealous or any thing.

HANDSOME Hugh McQuillan was unlucky. He had a lot of stuff and he was getting the ball on the corners. We were parked right back of the plate, and saw how the balls that walked men on Bushey and caused him to be derricked might have been called strikes. He was just missing by a few inches, and undoubtedly would have gone along as well as Rosy Ryan, who relieved him. Rosy was a lucky Saint, for McGraw, however. He didn't pitch well, but he caught hold of a Russell curve and bolsted it high into the bleachers for a homey, a run the Giants needed very badly at that particular spot. Rosy was as wild as a taxi driver, and would have been beaten if he hung around an inning longer.

ROCAP SAYS GOLDMAN WAS NOT GIVEN TITLE

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—William A. Rocap, chairman of the Boxing Commission, declares that a misconception had been given the public in the published statement that Nate Goldman had been awarded the crown of lightweight champion of Pennsylvania.

Chairman Rocap states that Goldman had posted $500 with the commission to bind a match with any lightweight in the Keystone State. This forfeit had remained uncovered for such a length of time that the commission felt it was only a matter of justice to the boxer to release the money.

"All that we did in the Goldman case," said Mr. Rocap, "was to declare that because Goldman had posted this forfeit that he was one of the leading challengers for the lightweight champion of the State."

Which clears the matter immeasurably and relieves the commission of falling into the mistake of its New York neighbor, in awarding titles out of hand.

ROPER SHIFTS TIGER LINE IN ATTEMPT TO ADD SPEED

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 7.—Hill Roper shook up the Princeton centerline in an attempt to get a combination with more speed. Bill Forrest was shifted from center to guard, and Davis promoted from the second lineup to his curbing position. Bill McMillan, the heaviest man on the squad, was put in at center.

POOR, BUT THRILLING GAME, SAYS McGRAW

New York, Oct. 7 (Universal). — "It wasn't a great game by any way of thinking—but it certainly got thrilling in the ninth," said Manager John McGraw. "A sock with the bases choked and only one out probably would have changed the result, through I knew the Giants would come back fighting strong, if they had to. Every game has been hard fought so far and it is likely to be so to the end."

MARBERRY HELPS TO DIG OWN GRAVE

Photo Shows Jackson sliding home with the second Giant run in the second inning of the third game on a wild pitch by Fred Marberry, after Harris' muff of a circel double play had had unnerved the big Senatorial relief star. The play paved the way for Marberry's trip to the showers and put Washington hopelessly on the defensive. (International.)

MOODY TO RELY ON PUNCHING POWER

With Johnny Wilson, erstwhile welght champion, and Frank Moody, the hard-hitting Welsh middle weight, figuring in the feature bout of the meeting of the Suffolk A. A. at Mechanics Building next Friday night, and a galaxy of brilliant performers furnishing the preliminary pyrotechnics, Matchmaker Goodwin has arranged a card that is practically certain to insure a capacity house.

Moody's hitting prowess lies chiefly in his right hand, whereas Wilson's terrific punching is done with his left. The two boxers represent opposite types of ring men—an orthodox boxer vs. a southpaw—and while the exchampion's friends in this city are legion, the man from Wales will not lack for supporters when he engages the exchampion of the world.

HAWLEY GIVES GREEN SQUAD TALK ON FLAWS

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 7.—Coach Hawley gave the Dartmouth football squad a long talk in which he deplored the ragged playing of the Green team in the McGill game. The team took the field late in the afternoon.

Ed Dooley was absent because of a badly bruised hand sustained in Saturday's game. The team practised passing, working out forlorn the gallery, after which Fallon led team through signal practice.

HUB PLAYERS ON WORLD'S B.B. TOUR

Chicago, Oct. 7.—The list of players who will accompany the Chicago Americans and the New York Nationals on their world tour, starting the middle of the month, was announced here by Norris "Tip" O'Neill, business manager in charge of the trip.

The world tour will be preceded by an exhibition game at Ottawa, Canada, Oct. 13, after which the teams will sail for Europe, where Dick Kinsella, representing the Giants, has mapped out an itinerary which provides for games in Ireland, England, Belgium and Italy.

The White Sox lineup will include: Outfield, Mostil and Falk, Chicago, and Rice, Washington; infield, Kamm, Morehart and Clancy, all of Chicago, and one other player to be selected; catchers, Ruel of Washington and Pleinich of the Boston Red Sox; pitchers, Faber, Robertson, Lyons and Foreman, all of Chicago. Ed. Walsh, coach of the White Sox, will act as one of the umpires and Manager Johnny Evers will be in charge of the Sox.

Those making the trip with the Giants include: Infield, Groh, Jackson and Frisch, all of the Giants, and McInnis of the Boston Braves; outfield, Young and Meusel of New York, Stengel of Boston; pitchers, Bentley, Jonnard and Nehf of the Giants and one other to be selected; catchers, Henline of Philadelphia and Gowdy of New York. Hugh Jennings, Giant coach, and Manager John McGraw, will be in charge.

FRISCH PRAISES FIGHTING SPIRIT OF SENATORS

By FRANK FRISCH,

Captain of the New York Giants.

Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 7.—We're out in front now and that's where we're going to stay. With the series count two to one in our favor, and with Nehf and Bentley ready to toss the Senators for two more falls, it looks like another world's title for John McGraw.

Frank Frisch.

Our victory was gained this afternoon because we hit when hits meant runs and gave great fielding support to our pitchers when they needed it most.

The Senators had to play from behind all through, but they never quit in the great effort to catch us. They're a mighty game crowd, those Senators. They don't know what quit means.

That fourth inning splurge those Senators made was a wow. When they had one run in and the bases loaded it looked mighty bad for us. But Rosy Ryan put one where Nemo Leibold could hit it—and then Wilson did the rest by catching it and retiring the side.

FRANKIE MODEST.

They put over another rally in the eighth that looked for a few minutes as if they might tie or pass us. A hit, a walk, another hit, one run in and two on. A long drive would have made it all even Stephen. Leibold was the emergency man again, but once more Ryan held him safe by forcing him to hit to me for an out at first.

And then came that great ninth inning effort. It was one of the most crucial moments I've ever known in baseball play. Three hits by the Senators—three on bases, one out. Jonnard went in for us, walked a batter, forcing in a run, making it 3 to 2 in our favor, with the sacks still loaded.

As it was an even tie, an extra long hit would have put them in front. Then we called on Watson and his great pinch pitching stopped the Senators, and won us the game.

IN HITTING MOOD.

Sam Rice made a remarkable one-handed catch in the fourth that robbed Lindstrom of a sure double. And then Ross Young showed the crowd that he could play right field in as spectacular a fashion as Sam by making a fine circus catch on Ruel in the sixth.

It wasn't a great ball game, so far as the technical part of it was considered. But it was one of those colored things, in the series way, with almost everything happening that could happen. It kept the crowd keyed up all the way—and that's one big accomplishment anyway.

We were in a hitting mood—and when we get that way we usually do the "carry-on" stuff. We're going right through the series in a clubbing mood and with Nehf figured to win his next start, and Bentley looking like a sure betwell, it looks mighty neat for us from now on.

Short Sports of All Sorts

Today, for the first time this season, the Georgetown University football squad will conduct its daily practice secretly, according to orders issued by Coach Little. This is being done in preparation for the coming game with King College, sensational pulse-setting eleven from Tennessee.

The 'Varsity squad of Captain Fred Sheehan, guard, of North Abington, who has been out with an injured shoulder, and Tony Plansky of South Boston, caused Georgetown football stock to soar. Plansky is being depended upon this year to do the kicking.

Fred Pickering of Myopia is the champion of New England greenkeepers. The N. E. Greenkeepers' Club held its first title meeting at Winchester, and Pickering, with his 91, was a stroke to the good over Ted Swanson of Bear Hill.

* * *

Gore Hall won the first of a series of interdormitory cross-country meets for Harvard freshmen, with Standish Hall second and Smith third. The first seven finishers counted. Gore had a 62-point total, Standish 76, and Smith 94.

* * *

Southpaw Dutch Leonard with Tigers and formerly of Red Sox went out on the Sunnyside golf course at his home in California and shot 155 for 36 holes. He topped the club ladder for the season.

* * *

Wilbur Cohen of New York, who substituted for Tony Carney against Harry Martin at Forest Hills, Long Beach was awarded the decision at the end of ten fast rounds.

* * *

Several matches were played in the preliminary round of the girls' interclass tennis tournament of the Concord High School. Miss Towne beat Miss Whitney, 6—1, 6—4. Miss Lee beat Miss Millett, 6—4, 6—0. Miss Jacobs beat Miss McWatters, 6—3, 6—0. Miss Arkin beat Miss Steinmarx, 6—1, 6—1.

* * *

Billy Murphy of Lowell received the decision after ten rounds of hard fighting over Henry Kenoyer of Derry, the featherweight champion of New Hampshire, Nashua, N. H.

* * *

Joe McKenney returned to quarterback on the Boston College varsity eleven. A decided improvement was displayed in the play and spirit of the workout. It is expected that McKenney will be ready for action against Fordham on Monday.

* * *

A. H. Bowlby has taken charge of the Rock Island eleven. He is supported by a well-organized football association and the islanders are going the limit to secure players.

* * *

The Wesleyan squad was given a lot of practice at passing. Coach Fred Martin says the men came through the hard game with Rochester in good condition and he expects to be able to throw his strongest lineup into the Columbia game on Saturday.

* * *

Brown started on its final lap of preparation for its first big game of the year, with the University of Chicago on Saturday.

Coach Marshall, who saw Chicago play, talked to the squad on the Westerners' plays.

HASKELL INDIANS HAVE TWO EASTERN GAMES

Lawrence, Kan., Oct. 7.—The football team of the Haskell Institute, a government Indian school, will play against Boston College at Boston November 1, and Brown College, Providence, November 8.

This is the first season that Haskell will enter Eastern collegiate football, although last year they played a game in New York with the Marines.

H. C. CAPTAIN FIGHTS THREAT OF POISONING

Worcester, Oct. 7.—Captain Hilery Mahaney, Holy Cross end, is in the college infirmary as a result of neglecting to look after a slight leg bruise received in the game against St. John's College, Saturday. Blood poisoning is feared.

ORIOLES LEAD SAINTS 3 TO 1 IN BIG SERIES

Baltimore, Oct. 7 (AP).—By walking away with yesterday's game, 10 to 1, the Orioles of the International League started for St. Paul leading in the Little World's Series, three games to one.

Union Track Team Out

Schenectady, Oct. 7.—With a squad of twenty-seven men to work with Harold Anson Bruce, director of athletics at Union College, has begun year-round training of those who will represent Union on the cinder track next Spring. Intercollege meets will be held in the Fall.

Record for Vance

Dutzy Vance, speedball pitcher of the Brooklyn Robins, recently made what is believed to be a major league record when in the third inning of the game with Cincinnati he struck out the side on nine pitched balls.

Johnson Is Not the Only One

Other Great Vets Never Nudged In

THERE have been many world's series that were fruitful for the experts and the feature writers alike. The combat between Washington and New York probably will go down in baseball annals as the reminiscent gem of them all. This situation is brought about by the fact that Walter Johnson, dearly beloved of all veterans of the game, finally is to have his ambition realized. He pitched the first game of the series, the first time in eighteen long years of trying that he has managed to squeeze into the world classic.

IT'S great to see this consummation of Walter's admirable years of endeavor in his chosen profession. It would have been fate's cruelest trick to set the big Kansan down flat without even a sniff of the additional honors that may accrue to him, to say nothing of a shot at the succulent coin involved.

BUT let us permit our minds to saunter back a bit and start to upbraid fate for the scurvy pranks she has played on others who, perhaps, were, or are, as great as Johnson in baseball athletics. One startling case that suggests itself at once is that of Napoleon Lajoie, perhaps the real headliner of all of the infielders of his day. This, too, may be said notwithstanding the fact that the famous Frenchman's day was a day of the greatest of the great.

NOT alone was Lajoie one of the most graceful and effective of the men of his time in the matter of playing a defensive second base, but he was a Fatsman of most extraordinary type, a man who could hit any pitching. Right and left-handers were all alike to him. If they threw them low or high he cared not, and he even was known to knock wild pitches out of the lot. He could hit like a fiend and had pitchers crazy trying to outguess him.

A S for the length of service the mighty one lasted much longer than the average. He started big league playing in 1901 with the Philadelphia Athletics and remained there until and including 1902. Then he went to Cleveland and remained there up to and including 1914. After that he returned for a couple of his fading years with the Athletics. Later he managed Indianapolis of the American Association. When he reads the laudatory stuff about Johnson, how do you think HE feels?

ADDIE JOSS, a mighty pitcher, was in Cleveland when "Nap" was there and got close to the cherished goal, but met untimely death just at a period when he seemed to be going his best on the diamond.

Cubs Paid $50,000 for Strike-Out King of Coast League

Los Angeles, Oct. 7. — Charley Root, young right-handed pitcher of Los Angeles, has been sold to the Chicago Cubs for cash and players totalling $50,000.

A cash payment, said to be in the neighborhood of $30,000, will be turned over to the Angels immediately. Two players satisfactory to Manager Marty Krug will be turned over to the Los Angeles squad in the Spring.

Root, the strike-out king of the Pacific Coast league, is to join the Cubs next Spring.

Root won fifteen games and lost the same number of contests, his curved ball is better now than when he joined the Angels, thanks to help on the part of Ore Crandall.

I had to quit the game in the third because something happened to a ligament. I'd have been willing to have gone on the hospital list three months like waster if I could only have played out the game and been sure of being in the world series.

I'd have given much to have been on there in the ninth with bases packs loaded and with the game depending on only old slack bat. Perhaps Watson would have turned me back lifeless like he did all the others—but I surely would have had another batting chance in a pinch.

Jim Maloney Signs to Battle McCann

The Armory A. A. has arranged another heavyweight show which will be staged at Mechanics Building on next Tuesday night. Four ten-round tussles will be staged.

Jim Maloney, South Boston heavyweight, will top the card, and will be opposed by Joe McCann of Newark, N. J.

McCann has the distinction of having knocked down Lulu Firpo.

Tom Kirby of Roxbury, former champion, and Jack McLellan of Somerville, will mix the welterweight punches in the semi-final of ten rounds.

Henry Van Patten of this city, former traffic cop who recently knocked out Rocky Stone, will have Arthur Del Monte of Italy as an opponent in another ten-session affair. The opening ten-round frolic will bring together Jack Hankinson of England and Jack Murphy of Roxbury.

WE'RE GOING TO SCRAP TO END, SAYS HARRIS

New York, Oct. 7 (Universal). — "We can look back at some tough breaks against us," said Stanley Harris, manager of the Washington Senators. "That injury to Peck in particular was tough. He's been going grand for us afield and at bat, and pulling him out hurt us immeasurably, breaking up our infield and weakening our batting. But that's the use of worrying about it now. We won the pennant by fighting and we're going to keep right on scrapping to the end. We're handicapped a bit—but, well, we will just forget that and play ball."

ODDS 2-1 ON GIANTS TO WIN WORLD'S SERIES

New York, Oct. 7. — Once again the betting on the World's Series switched about. Around the corridors of the various hotels wagers were made at 2 to 1 that the Giants will win the World's Series.

Confidence, however, in the Washington team was not altogether dispelled and some wagers were recorded at 11 to 10 that the Senators will win today.

FEDERAL REGULATION OF BASEBALL PROPOSED

Washington, Oct. 7.—Baseball will be governed hereafter by a Federal commission instead of a voluntary, self-imposed dictatorship, if Congress enacts a bill to be introduced in the next Congress by Representative 86 Bloom of New York.

Mr. Bloom announced that he will take steps to provide Federal regulation for the national game, as well as endeavoring to stop future baseball scandals.

PECK DECLARES FRISCH BEAT SENATORS

By ROGER PECKINPAUGH

Captain of the Washington Senators

Polo Grounds, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Our failure to poke through a hit in the critical moments cost us the third game.

Roger Peckinpaugh

In the fourth, in the seventh and again in the ninth one nice safe blow would either have tied up the game or put us out in front. But we couldn't amass one out — and that's why we lost.

The man who really whipped us was Frank Frisch. Never did a man play a more superb game afield. He made two "impossible" running catches and his fielding from first to last was a thrilling thing to watch —even if his work killed our many chances to win.

The Giants beat us because they made more runs and more hits—and because, all things considered, they played better baseball.

The pitching that was sprayed onto the records perhaps constitutes a World's Series record. I don't recall any game in the 20 years of battling for baseball championships that brought so many twirlers to the mound.

And none wasn't much steadier than the other. This was a lase-on-balls day, I guess. For so many passes were tossed out by the army of pitchers that only a mathematician knows the real total.

Once again we're behind in the series ratings. But we're not discouraged. For once again, even in defeat, we proved that we're a scrapping club that never will concede victory to the other fellows —even "time is played to its absolute finish.

I had to quit the game in the third because something happened to a ligament. I'd have been willing to have gone on the hospital list three months like waster if I could only have played out the game and been sure of being in the world series.

I'd have given much to have been on there in the ninth with bases packs loaded and with the game depending on only old slack bat. Perhaps Watson would have turned me back lifeless like he did all the others—but I surely would have had another batting chance in a pinch.

INJURY TO PECKINPAUGH COSTS SENATORS THIRD GAME

PINCH HIT STAR IS MISSED

By THOMAS L. CUMMISKEY

New York, Oct. 7 (Universal)—The third game of the World's Series, which the Giants won from the Senators, 6 to 4, to become one up, compared to the two classical battles in Washington like a punk Broadway bust to Hamlet.

Several times it struggled above the mediocre, with Frankie Frisch starring in brilliantly spectacular catches and stops. It reached the heights of interest in the ninth—the climax was great—but sagged sadly most of the way.

It seemed to me that the charley horse attack suddenly suffered by Roger Peckinpaugh had a tremendous deal to do with the final outcome. He had to stay out after the second inning and while Ossie Bluege, moved over from third to short, did well there, Rookie Miner, who went to third and batted for Peck's place, was nothing like Peck at bat.

BITES AT BAD ONE.

It was Peck who won with a double for Washington in the ninth Sunday and who tied the score in the ninth in the 12 inning first game. He might have failed yesterday in the ninth, when Washington had a scoring chance to win. But we doubt that he would have hit at a bad Miller did with the bases loaded, one out, and the score 6 to 4.

The second got their first break in the game in this inning, getting two lucky singles to start off. Then Sam Rice, who had played fine ball throughout, banged a real single, filling the bases. Ryan, who was wild but hard to hit until this frame, was taken out. Jonnard passed Bluege, forcing in Harris, and was yanked, Watson going in. His first pitch was a ball.

Instead of taking the second, which was in close, Miller swung and raised an easy foul to Lindstrom, which certainly steadied Watson and all the Giants. Then Ruel grounded weakly to Lindstrom, who tagged third for a forceout on Judge, and it was all over.

MARBERRY NERVOUS.

Fred Marberry was nervous at the start, but got through the first and would have in the second but for an error and slow fielding. This unnerved him he passed three men, but pulled himself together to fan the dangerous Young with the bases loaded.

A double play was in a sight with Terry on first after Watson had fanned when Jackson grounded to Bluege, then on third, but Harris muffed a throw while in a difficult position and both Giants were safe. Then Gowdy singled to score Jackson. He was out at second when Goslin fooled around with the ball but got it in time to throw to Harris to nip slow Hank. In the meantime, however, Jackson went to third and a wild pitch by the unstrung Marberry then let him in.

Offsetting this, however, were the two runs forced in for Washington by bases on balls. Still, in all, the unsteadiness of the Washington infield and absence of Peck gave the Giants chances to make the most of real opportunities. The Giants are seemingly great favorites of late in the breaks.

The Giants easily outfielded the Senators, barring Rice on Harris' bid an attack and Washington hadn't. They had no pinch hitter the like capabilities of Peckinpaugh—and that, to us, seems the big story. Twice Washington had the sacks choked and couldn't produce a single. That's tough!

THREE STAR BOUTS FOR WRESTLING FANS

Ir Leona Labriola, the Italian Lion, makes good in his bout with Martin Hercules, the big Greek, at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night, Italian mat fans will hail him as greater than George Calza or Angelo Taramanchi.

In the other all star bout on the card Stanley Stasiak will have his work cut out for him to beat Brugglo, the Austrian grappler.

In the opening bout Jim Brown, the Greek middleweight, will meet Alex McLeod, the Scotch middleweight, in a one-fall contest.

TOLLEY, BRITISH GOLF MAN, MAY MAKE HOME IN N. Y.

Hamilton, Oct. 7.—Cyril J. H Tolley, former British amateur golf champion and captain of this year's British Walker cup team, is planning to remain in this country, probably to live in New York, it was learned. Tolley is now in Canada with teammates. He is expected to return in time for the Yale-Dartmouth football game at New Haven, October 18.

DEVELOPING NEW PLAYS FOR GAME WITH HARVARD

Middlebury, Vt., Oct. 7—Middlebury settled down to serious practice in preparation for the Harvard game Saturday.

Coach Jones is directing all his efforts to building up an attack that will be entirely new to Harvard and special stress is being laid on the new scoring line from the 45 yard line which has never before been used but which is wholly within the rules.

Epinard in First Mile

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 7—Epinard, Pierre Wertheimer's European thoroughbred, was given another workout to fit him for the International race next Saturday. The French horse was paced by Diagram over a mile in 1:42 1-5, negotiating the distance handily.

Epinard was off with the barrier with full international weight up and Jockey Everett in the saddle. He went to the first quarter in 0:23 2-5, the half in 0:48 1-5, five-eighths in 1:01, and three-fourths in 1:16.

Pitt University to Be Without Nine Next Season

Pittsburgh, Oct. 7.—There will be no more playing baseball at the University of Pittsburgh next season.

At a meeting of the athletic council recently it was definitely decided not to attempt to put a baseball team on the field in 1925, owing to the lack of facilities.

Pitt has never been blest with a first-class baseball grounds. Trees Field at best had a short right field and the surface was none too good. However, it was the best available, but when the work was started on the new Pitt stadium the surplus earth was dumped on Trees Field to raise its level a number of feet.

This makes it unfit for use, and, without a home grounds, it was felt by the powers that be that it would be folly to attempt to support a team next Spring.

The layoff is only for one season, however. By the Spring of 1926 the baseball field at the new stadium will be ready for use and baseball will have its share in that it can be used for practice purposes. This will also mean that the varsity and freshman teams will be able to play at home at the same time, and it is planned to revive the national game on a large scale.

JOHNSON SAYS LANDIS MUST GET OUT OF GAME

Excelsior Springs, Mo., Oct. 7.—President Ban Johnson of the American League will demand a grand jury investigation and criminal prosecution of the men connected with baseball's latest scandal, he announced here.

His announcement came during a interview in which he again denounced Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis as "a man who must be driven out of organized baseball."

WHITE SOX RETAIN CHICAGO CITY TITLE

Chicago, Oct. 7.—The White Sox remain Chicago baseball champions of the year by virtue of their 6 to 5 victory over the Cubs in the 1924 American League park Sunday, even though the Cubs, 5 to 3, the American League champions would demand a grand jury investigation and criminal prosecution of the men connected with baseball's latest scandal, he announced here.

His announcement came during a interview in which he again denounced Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis as "a man who must be driven out of organized baseball."

Scholastic Chatter

The Brighton High football team defeated Allston High, 6 to 0, in a hard fought game at Allston, even though Allston is far superior.

Chelsea High has plenty of defensive power. Were the club to work up a few offensive plays they would pull out of the doldrums in which it has made them the laughing stock of the North Shore League.

Howell at centre and Perella in the backfield stand out as the two best men on the club. The latter has a fine punt, while Howell's attraction at Salem, even though Ridge

SONG CYCLE TONIGHT BY ENGLISH COMPOSER

A song cycle by Wood, famous English composer, will be broadcast through WJZ as a feature of the Evening Post hour of program tonight. The Flonzaley Harmonium and quartet will render the selections of Wood, the program feature which has earned them a wide reputation for its work.

The theme of Wilson composition depicts a holiday outing of an Irish lassie with her escort. There are vivid musical pictures of meadows, brooks and fair scenes of the country side. The Flonzaley Trio will render the instrumental accompaniment to the singers. There will several song features by the talented artists.

FAMOUS FIRSTS

By Mark Stuyvesant.

THE darkest hour of the World War occured in the early summer of 1918, when the Germans began to drop shells into Paris from a gigantic cannon known as "Big Bertha," which was located some fifteen miles distant behind the German lines.

In General Grant's Memoirs he described an attack by the American army, in which he was Lieutenant, upon a Mexican fort mounting heavy guns. He said he could see the cannon balls coming through the air and it was an easy matter to dodge them. This was in 1846.

Now it happened that the nations of the world had been using cannon for about seven hundred years when General Grant was able to side-step cannon balls. And about eighty-years later a cannon had been invented which hauled a large explosive shell fifty miles or more so rapidly that the shell was invisible as it darted through the air. That is the way modern cannon marched in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

It is supposed that connons were invented by the Chinese, who also invented gunpowder many centuries before a European monk rediscovered it. The first authentic use of cannons in Europe occurred in 1118 when the King of Tunis, then one of the centres of the Arab civilization attacked Seville.

Spain learned about them from the Arabs and in 1209 King Ferdinand took Gibraltar from the Arabs by the use of cannon. Even in those days they built monstrous cannon. When the Turks attacked Constantinople in 1464, they had one bronze cannon with a bore of 25 inches, which threw a huge stone weighing 800 pounds.

Cannons came into use on warships very early. Previous to the thirteenth century, warships were used to ram one another and the fighting was done by boarding. Even as late as our War of 1812 it was customary for ships to lay alongside one another and fire their cannon into one another from the distance of a few rods.

Modern warships begin firing at a distance of eight miles, and so accurate are the devices for aiming the huge guns that hits are scored and vessels frequently sunk at this distance.

The rapid-fire cannon is entirely a modern invention. The French "75" revealed hurled three-inch shells several miles with amazing rapidity, and the efficiency of this arm was largely responsible for their defeat of the Germans at the first battle of the Marne.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney
Boston Health Commissioner

THAT dollar-and-a-quarter steak isn't worth the price.

Tender and luscious, it may be, but as a business proposition, it's the bunk.

This, of course, will not stop anyone, with the price and the taste of an epicure, firm going out and ordering a slice of rump steak with his French fried potatoes.

Dr. Mahoney.

However, if you draw down wages instead of a salary, and have to order your meals accordingly, don't be afraid of liver and kidneys. They're your best bet in the way of meats.

Wrapped in those glandular organs in the body of animals are the best life-giving elements in the whole carcass. The kidneys, liver and other glandular organs contain the vitamines, the condensed sum of all the most necessary substances given the body for the continuance of its existence.

When one of the lower carnivorous animals—for we are partly carnivorous—attacks its prey, it first rips up the body and devours the liver and kidneys and stomach with their numerous gastric and intestinal glands.

Then it sinks its teeth into the neck of its prey and consumes its blood. Nature itself, prompts the animal to do this. In the blood and glandular organs are the greatest food values. Instinctively the attacking animal knows this and consumes them first. When his hunger is slacked, he may dabble with the muscle cuts, more appetizing to us, perhaps, but much less important as food.

We have never learned to borrow the wisdom of the animal in his care of himself. He searches out his foods with far greater skill than we do. He knows when he has enough, and he does not need to worry a lot appetite with unreasonable dieting.

His choice of meat cuts is but an example of it. Yet we buy rib or loins, tops of the round and cuts, imagining we have bought best there is. They are rarely most expensive. Liver and kidneys still hold the gold of the body.

And, by the way, when we insist on our menu, we don't have to forget the salad. If the daily allotment for lunch or dinner does allow both, get the salad. And even at the risk of bad manners, eat your lettuce.

They expelled a young woman from her sorority not so long ago for doing this, but that's merely an example of our lack of wisdom.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By George P. Medbury

THIS is the season of the year when the average man forgets all about love and spends his time trying to get his Winter overcoat out of the hock shop.

HE wants something on his shoulders besides a little powder and a few blonde hairs.

A MAN can have seventeen overcoats in pawn, but the tickets won't keep him warm.

ONE guy tried to make a Winter overcoat out of putting sleeves on a hot water bag.

WHENEVER he was downtown and felt chilly he went into the nearest restaurant and had it filled with soup or coffee.

MEN have often kept warm by wearing cheap whiskers, but this is very unsatisfactory as everybody crowds around you trying to read the headlines.

My father fell two years ago and broke some bones. It has left him with slow paralyzed legs. The spine is apparently in good shape. Do you know of a doctor similar to Dr. ..... who can help him.

T. H. Andover.

I have never heard of the doctor to whom you refer. From the description with you give of his injuries, I do not think that much can be done. Think he had better be guided by the advice of his physician.

Am suffering from constipation and wish to know whether or not it is caused from organic obstruction. Can I get a free examination at a hospital or must I pay for it? J. Boston.

You can have a free examination at the Boston City Hospital.

I got an infection in my second finger on my left hand. Every few months it becomes very itchy and then gets red and painful. Seems to me it resembles Mrs. B. N. T. The conditions which you mention may be serious in origin. First, I would advise some laboratory test which will do which will affect the condition. Also, I suggest that you have your urine examined for presence of sugar.

YOUTH TAKES STONE SHOW HONORS

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

THERE is no getting away from one stern reality, especially in the theatre. Youth will find its way into the hearts of men and stir up quite a fuse before the night is over. "Stepping Stones" came into view at the Colonial last night, with Fred Stone, hero of many artistic campaigns, stepping livelier than ever to keep up with a sprightly daughter who appears to have inherited a good many of her father's admirable traits and more than a reasonable share of his talents.

At any rate, that is an interpretation that might be safely placed upon the more or less intra-family competition that crowded the evening with gaiety and gave evidence that stepping from one generation to another in the distribution of entertainment may have its own advantages.

"Stepping Stones," modestly proclaimed as a fantastic musical comedy, was really a good deal more than that. As its multitude of scenes were unrolled there were constant manifestations that the musical extravaganza you once enjoyed so much had not completely passed into the land of forgotten things.

A rather thin story, touching lightly upon Little Red Riding Hood, by Anne Caldwell, with pleasant melodies by Jerome Kern, served the associated Stones in harmonious fashion. The acrobatic, freely-jointed father was the Fred Stone of familiar memory—a good deal of a clown, and a master at touch-and-go comedy. He is, perhaps, more of an entertainer than an artist, but he does run well in any company.

With both Dorothy and Mrs. Stone (Allene Crater) as companions, Mr. Stone made "Stepping Stones" something of a happy family reunion. As graceful as anything the stage has given us in years, Dorothy sadly danced her way into high favor. She combined fine dancing talents with an irresistible charm that fitted nicely into Miss Caldwell's fantastic story, though it must be confessed that if her father loved her as he should he would have seen to it that she was provided a handsomer prince.

While the Stones, here, there, and everywhere, kept the piece in high speed, a group of Sixteen Teller girls performed with that rare precision that distinguishes the ensemble dancers from over the sea. Others who caught an occasional ray of the spotlight were Oscar Ragan and Hazel Glen, who sang pure notes from Mr. Kern's score, and George Hermann, a dancing contortionist, who did things in his own way.

"Stepping Stones" proved itself good, sound entertainment, tuneful and merry, spectacular in scenic embellishment and costuming, and perfectly safe for children. In fact, any good doctor would advise repeated doses of it for children.

DE MILLE FILM SCORES AT FENWAY

The Fenway Theatre presents a bill of especial excellence this week, with "Feet of Clay," a Paramount picture produced by Cecil B. DeMille, a "speaking-movie" with President Coolidge talking, the usual Kat Kommedy and pictures of the World's Series opening in Washington.

"Feet of Clay" shows the influence of the DeMille imaginative qualities. It is a story of thrills, pathos and tragedy, constructed around the tribulations in the married life of a devoted young couple.

It is a tale of the misdirected love of a young wife, married to a man many years older than she, and the sorrows and trials that her efforts to win the love of another man cause for him, his wife, her husband, and finally herself.

As the story unfolds, the feelings of the audience are little spared, for misunderstandings grow into serious conflicts until scandal, dishonor and death result.

The "speaking movie," in which President Coolidge is seen speaking on the White House lawn, while his voice reaches the audience in perfect synchrony with the movement of his lips, is worth going far to see.

"SMALL TOWN" PLAY OFFERED AT ST. JAMES

If you like "Main street" sort of life and enjoy "small town" characters, then a very enjoyable evening is in store for you at St. James, where the Boston Stock Company is presenting Richard Purdy's well-known comedy, "Across the Street."

The play is based on the respective destinies of two young men who are apparently misfit in their vocations. As editor of the one newspaper, and manager of the one dry-goods store, respectively, Herbert Hayes and Houston Richards are two dyed-in-the-wool pals. But even their friendship fails to compensate for the placid monotony of Glendale, a retrogressive New England town, and, realizing their unfitness for their respective professions, they decide to switch secretly.

Happily, the change brings prosperity to both them and the town, but unhappily a politician who holds the town in the hollow of his hand, almost threatens to break up the whole plan.

But then romance steps in, the ulterior plans of the politician are thwarted, and a "happy dawn" breaks for the pair.

Holiday Matinees

Holiday matinees are announced for next Monday (Columbus Day) at the following theatres: Selwyn, with William Hodge in "For All of Us"; Boston Opera House, with De Wolf Hopper in "Wang"; Majestic, with Florence Mills in "Dixie to Broadway"; Shubert, with Edith Day in "Wildflower"; Tremont, with Irene Gordon in "Little Miss Bluebeard," and Hollis, with Cyril Maude in "Aren't We All."

VARIED BILL MARKS PROGRAM AT KEITH'S

All is variety this week at Keith's, with Eddie Clayton and Frank Lentz, in a brand new dancing act, and Mr. and Mrs. Hale Hamilton (Grace LaRue) with a one-act playlet, leading for honors.

An acrobatic act that, unlike most closing acts, is well worth waiting through the entire show for, is that of the Three Lordans, "Lights Out."

Then there are Lee Beers, original entertainer, and Miss LaRue in a little song cycle of her own.

The balance of the bill is made up of the Hodges, presenting "In the Moonlight," an acrobatic act; Henry and Moore in a little booking agency nonsense; The Cansinos; Aesop's Fables in cartoons and the usual "Topics of the Day" and Pathe news reel.

"OUTWARD BOUND" PROVES NOVELTY

"Outward Bound," the Sutton Vane comedy of what happens to the hereafter, came to the Plymouth last night and plainly convinced a big audience that the dramatic novelty of the year had arrived. In the cast were: Whitford Kane, Charlotte Granville, Tom Nesbitt, Minnie Dupree, Eugene Powers, Herbert Heywood, Marcia Byron, Leonard Mudie and Gerald Cordel. "Outward Bound" will be reviewed in Wednesday's Boston American.

SYMPHONY HALL TO GIVE NOTED CONCERTS

Important concerts in the near future, announced to be given in Symphony Hall, are a recital by Ernestine Schumann-Heink, the great contralto, on Sunday afternoon, October 12; the appearance of the Fisk Jubilee Singers of Nashville, Tennessee on Monday evening, October 27th; and a recital by Feodor Chaliapin, the Russian singer, on Sunday afternoon, November 2.

HOPPER AGAIN MAKES HIT IN PINAFORE

If additional evidence were needed to prove that Gilbert and Sullivan still maintain their high place in the affections of Boston lovers of comic opera, DeWolf Hopper and his company presented such evidence in the opening presentation of "H. M. S. Pinafore," at the Boston Opera House.

The large opening night audience showed, as it did when the "Mikado" was presented, that Gilbert and Sullivan produced scores and lyrics that will survive with the classic.

Mr. Hopper gave an excruciatingly funny interpretation of "Dick Deadeye." Arthur Cunningham as the Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, First Lord of the Admiralty, proved himself a comic opera star of rare parts.

WOMAN IMPERSONATOR HIT AT SOMERVILLE

Tommie Martelle, a female delineator, appeared at the Somerville Theatre yesterday in "The Naughty Demoiselle." There was a decided surprise when the offering opened with a prologue that revealed Martelle as a straight dramatic actor. But a moment later the fun began, for "Naughty Demoiselle" blossomed forth into mile-a-minute comedy. Martelle was called upon to assume the identity—and of course the gowns—of a very naughty French actress.

Excellent roles were assigned to members of the Somerville Players.

EX-RESIDENT OF UTAH TO SPEAK ON MORMONS

A lecture of Mormonism will be given by Mrs. Lulu Loveland Shepard, former president of the W. C. T. U., of Utah, at the Temple Street Methodist Church tomorrow night.

Mrs. Shepard, who spent twenty-eight years in Utah, has just completed a tour of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, where she explained the mushroom growth of Mormonism and how converts are made.

On Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock she will speak to women only at the same church on "Mormon Temple Secrets," or "Why Women Should Fight."

FIRST 'CHICKIE' APRON COUPON TOMORROW

First coupon in all editions of tomorrow's Boston American.

Then, on Thursday, with two coupons, clipped from the Boston American of two consecutive dates, and forty-nine cents in hard cash ready for action—you can obtain your Chickie Tea Apron at last.

From all indications thus far, there will be a rush for these neat, dressy and serviceable aprons, so if ladyowns those who want to get them before the heavy rush begins to come early.

If any lady is unable to do her own shopping with her two coupons and forty-nine cents at the Boston American's big bargain sale, she may send her husband, her brother or even her son. Her sweetheart will come in anyway, sweethearts being taken that way.

No male has anything to fear in a Boston American bargain sale. If a man is sighted milling hopelessly and affrighted on the outskirts of the crowd, there are enough kind-hearted men in the Honest building to take him in hand and help him out of his predicament.

Remember—if you are a blonde, there are emerald green aprons, perfect matches for blondes. If you are a brunette, we can match you in a pretty shade of red.

BOSTON GIRL AWARDED TWO B. U. SCHOLARSHIPS

A Boston girl, Miss Martha Nehrbeun, has received the first two scholarships awarded this year by the Boston University Art Department.

The scholarships are the gifts of Mrs. W. Scott Fitz and Miss Abbie Hunt, both of this city.

The Art Department this year has the largest registration in its history. The Saturday afternoon painting class for business men and women also has increased.

Metal craftsmanship, taught by Miss Gladys Ricker, a graduate of the Boston Normal Art School and a master craftsman of the Arts and Crafts Society, is the new course to be given this year.

PURDY MADE U. S. FLEET DIRECTOR IN BOSTON

Washington, Oct. 7.—President Coolidge of the U. S. Fleet Corporation announced the appointment of Captain Warren F. Purdy as director of the New England division of the Fleet Corporation, with headquarters in Boston.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE "TIP"

By Sol Vitt

A TIP on the Cross Word Puzzle, appearing in yesterday's American, No. 16—Horizontal—"An enimel," is "Ant."
No. 2—Vertical—"Place of worship" is "Altar."
Therefore in the solution of the puzzle, these words allen as follow:

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Why cannot the New York Stock Exchange insure the public against losses suffered in dealing with members who fail?

It could be done. And, so far as I can reason it out, it should be done.

How?

One reform now under consideration of the stock exchange governors is to subject members to periodical independent audits.

In addition to being costly, the auditing of a concern carrying scores of millions of securities entails more or less dislocation to business and much overtime work on the part of employes, for the most careful concerns check up every item after everything is handed back by the auditors.

• • •

Why would it not be feasible for the stock exchange, instead of insisting upon periodical outside audits, to assess its members according to the amount of the business each passes through the clearing house, a certain sum and set aside this money as an insurance fund against losses sustained by the public through the dishonesty or the bankruptcy of members?

• • •

The amount thus collected for the first year might not be regarded as affording sufficient protection for this purpose, and it therefore might be advisable to insure the risk with Lloyds or one of our large bonding companies.

But in two or three years the money thus accumulated should prove ample, and, of course, it would increase year after year should no extraordinary losses occur.

• • •

By carrying its own insurance, so to speak, the stock exchange would be following the example of some of our largest and most successful industrial enterprises. They do not take out outside insurance policies, but set aside certain sums every year as a reserve against loss by fire and other causes.

• • •

Money paid out by stock exchange firms for audits ordered by the stock exchange would, of course, be gone beyond recovery. But the money paid by members into such a fund as here outlined would stand to the credit of the membership, and as it increased year by year the stock exchange seats naturally would become more and more valuable.

• • •

It is the proud boast—and presumably the justified boast—of the stock exchange that the losses sustained by the public through the dishonesty or failure of members are astoundingly small. Therefore, it should be possible after a few years to reduce very greatly the assessment levied for the insurance fund.

• • •

Think of the confidence such an arrangement would inspire in investors. Would it not go far to drive bucketshops out of business? Wouldn't you have a feeling of absolute safety in dealing with a stock exchange house were you guaranteed against all possible dishonesty or financial embarrassment on the part of that house?

• • •

Is it not reasonable to figure that the increase in the volume of business flowing into stock exchange houses, in preference to non-member houses, would go far to make up for the annual contribution to the guarantee fund?

The time would probably come, indeed, when the interest earned on the fund would almost, if not quite, meet the amount to be raised annually.

• • •

Frankly, I never favored guaranteeing bank deposits, as I felt that the results were bound to be—well, about what they have been where the experiment has been tried.

But I have yet to be convinced that the proposal made here would not be worth adopting from the point of view both of the members of the stock exchange and the public doing business with them.

• • •

This suggestion will be submitted to the stock exchange authorities for their consideration.

SILVER PRICE IS AT NEW TOP FOR YEAR

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor.

High prices of the year for silver, attributed to new demand in the Far East and to other causes, lend interest to a study of white metal production.

Incidentally it is worthy of note that the U. S. Department of the Interior is conducting a study of new uses for silver in industry and commerce.

Latest figures available (it is plainly impossible to have these data up to the minute) show that the United States produced in 1922 about 36 per cent. of the silver turned out by the mines of the world as against 26 per cent. in 1913, 33 per cent. in 1900, 29 per cent. in 1870, 24 per cent. in 1865 and 8 per cent. in 1861, the initial year of our recognition as an important factor in world silver production. Prior to 1860 our share of world production was extremely small, but a fraction of 1 per cent.

Our production of silver which amounted to only 116,016 ounces in 1860, about 1,547,000 in 1861, for the first time crossed the 10 million line in 1867, being for that year 10,441,000 ounces; in 1870 13,600,000, 1880 30,000,000, 1890 54,000,000, 1900 58,000,000, 1910 57,000,000, 1915 75,000,000, and in 1922 58,240,000 ounces.

Although we came late into the field of silver production, the share which we have supplied of the world's outturn of silver from 1492 to the end of 1922 is about 21 per cent. of the total outturn, according to accepted authorities, of this 431-year period having been 13,176,000,000 troy ounces, and our own outturn since we entered the field, ninety years ago, 2,735,000,000 ounces, with a commercial value of $3,255,000,000.

• • •

Silver made a new high for the year at 70⅝ cents, up ⅝ from Saturday. This is an advance of 8⅛ cents from the year's low of 62¾, in January. The 1923 high was 68⅝ cents and low 62⅛. The advance has followed substantial shipments to the Far East.

In every month this year exports have shown ex- over imports, as shown in the following:

	Imports	Exports	Excess of exports
August	$7,141,000	$6,622,067	$1,396,487
July	7,127,813	9,190,362	2,062,749
June	4,870,289	9,848,496	4,778,139
May	5,859,562	9,668,517	4,008,955
April	3,947,745	7,801,698	3,853,944
March	6,220,934	8,355,278	2,134,344
Feb.	7,990,609	8,981,113	990,504
Jan.	5,979,758	8,208,844	2,228,886

Silver was stimulated by the purchase last July of 6,400,000 ounces by Poland for coinage at Philadelphia mints and expectation that other European nations eventually will do in the market.

STOCK PRICES DRIFT DULLY IN NEW YORK

Stock prices drifted dully in trading on the New York Stock Exchange with no marked trend.

Chandler sold off over a point to a new 1924 low, while Wells Fargo Express and Inland Steel preferred were at new highs for the year.

Sharp break in grain prices furnished bear traders with another excuse for an attack on the general list, many popular issues being driven down 1 to 3 points during the morning.

Heavy liquidation of sugar shares was believed to reflect speculative disappointment over this year's earnings.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, which has fluctuated erratically in recent sessions, broke 4 points. G. R. Kinney dropped 2¾ and Woolworth one specialties lost a point or so.

Selling of Southern Railway, which dropped a point, was inspired by legal proceedings brought by certain preferred stockholders in an attempt to get more favorable dividend action.

Nickel Plate broke 2½ points. Atchison, Delaware & Hudson and Gulf, Mobile & Northern preferred each fell back 1.

Call money renewed at 2½ per cent.

St. Paul issues made partial recovery from yesterday's weakness in today's bond market, but the rest of the list displayed considerable irregularity.

St. Paul 4s of 1925 rallied nearly 3 points and the 4½s of 1932, refunding 4½s and convertible 5s advanced ⅝ to 1.

In Boston Stock Exchange trading, changes were all fractional for the midafternoon with setbacks predominating.

ATCHISON CONTINUES TO SET NEW RECORDS

Atchison continues to pile up new high records for weekly loadings and receipts from connections. Revenue freight cars handled last week totaled 45,237, against 43,514 in the week ended September 26 and 39,900 in the same week last year. This is the third consecutive week that Atchison set new weekly record loading mark.

PRICES AGAIN RAISED BY AMERICAN WOOLEN

American Woolen Company announces second advance on all goods made with wool or worsted yarns. Recent raise made in this class of goods was based on increased cost of woolen content, and the latest advance partially reflects increased cost of worsted content. Advances range from 7½ to 5 cents a yard.

PRICE SOUGHT ON NEW EDISON ISSUE IS $155

Price of $155 a share fixed by the company for the proposed twenty per cent. increase in Edison Co. of Boston stock is subject to the approval of the Department of Public Utilities. As this figure bears about the same arelation to the current market price as previous authorizations by the department, it is anticipated that the department's "O. K." will be forthcoming in the present instance also.

Assuming that the department acts upon the company's petition before October 20, the stockholders at their adjourned meeting on that day will vote to authorize the issuance of the stock, following which action the circular outlining the subscriptions ters will be mailed to shareholders.

Edison stock is today quoted at 186½. Allowing for the fact that there is a $3 dividend in the stock the rights have a theoretical value of about $13.

Edison Electric rights when issued were quoted "outside the rails" 3½ and 4, with 100 wanted and 500 offered at these prices.

bricks and mortar, as they probably did on the Tower of Babel.

MR. FRELINGHUYSEN, formerly Senator from New Jersey, has bought the Newark Press, a tabloid evening newspaper.

Wishing Senator Frelinghuysen the best of luck, it is only fair to warn him that he will now go through an experience that will make politics seem like child's play. One year's financing of a new newspaper is a whole education in itself.

IN SOME PLACES yesterday gasoline was selling below nine cents a gallon. That, with wheat ABOVE $1.70 a bushel, pleases the farmer. Democrats say: "The farmers won't be fooled into voting for Coolidge because wheat is high. There is nothing to prevent its going down after election."

The Republican farmer may reply: "That's so, but there are some things that might help it go down, after electing, pretty fast."

GOULD HEIRS, fighting over $70 millions left by old Jay Gould, are represented by thirty-five lawyers. Whenever they meet in court, it costs the heirs $2,500 an hour. And there are legal guardians appointed by the court for the numerous minors. As Jay Gould looks down, it must make him shiver, in spite of the fact that money is of no importance where he is now?

WRITER LIFTS CURTAIN OFF NEW MORALS

But Dane Herrick was very young and poor, as most young fellows are.

Nora Lee was vivid and captivating. Other men could shower her with love. Others could fill her hands with gifts. In the years they had to wait, should the man expect her to live like a nun—enter a cloister— shun delights?

Of course not! So she took what came her way. It rang with joy—until one night of a stark and blasting tragedy . . .

Nora Lee's eyes were opened. What was there to see? Was the man she loved lost to her—were her own ideals too badly shattered—her own heart too freely spent?

You can ask that question of two out of every five girls you know. They won't answer the truth—women never do—they trick even their own hearts.

For they are spending their fires today—some of them wantonly. They call it "living" and "being human." They say the world will be better for this sex honesty.

PARENTS ARE FALLEN.

Is this the truth? Even parents have fallen in with the new fashion in morals. Mothers used to hold up the code of ideals, that in its light their children would climb higher.

But what of the bob-haired, cigarette-smoking young mothers of today; the flappers of 35 and 40 who dress and act as young as their daughters? They have their social calls, their carnal men friends. They want to keep in with their children even if this means mixing the drinks.

Is this wisdom or is it folly? Are these mothers keeping step with progress or with damnation?

Only the future will tell. So sharp an observer as Rupert Hughes stoutly defends the girls and boys of today. He says the world likes to stone women. It called them vicious names when they were merely and now that they've tossed the whole bone into the sea it brings against them a charge of gross immorality. Women were stupid to wear corsets; they are indecent to go without them!

The styles change in clothes; they are also changing in ethics. But can a world of human heart, and human passions trifle with love and "get away with it?"

Can a girl afford to fritter her affections, or is she only cheating herself?

HAS LOYAL HEART.

Nora Lee has as loyal a heart, as deep and true a spirit as women who loved a thousand years ago. All unaware, she threw away the gift she wanted most from life—love that is consuming and wrapped about with flame.

Frantic she went running up with eager hands and begged that life would give her back the freshness—give her back the joy. . . .

Can life do that? There is in Nora Lee a searching and terrible illumination for women who stand at the brink of life and wonder whether they should wander here and there gathering a rose, a pearl—or if they should wait, heart-held and with a burning faith for the one priceless treasure.

Is any love with this lifetime of secrecy, lies and denial? When pain comes should a woman kick over the traces and call quits on the marriage vows?

Read Nora Lee if you want bloodwarm answers to these problems—this is at the thought of today. In Nora Lee you will meet the woman who lives next door and who bores a divorce lawyer—and who is just bored to death with Henry, or Jack, or Joe to live with a man she's not in cooling. In Nora Lee you will meet the flapper who is taking her fling and outwitting [illegible] stupidity—"Mother Nature."

But chiefly you will meet Nora Lee herself—you will feel with her the tumult and the ache of this heartmeating age; you will see, with her, the anguish of a brave heart turned from its rightful path; you will hold your breath with a tightened pain, praying that the night of terror does not end in doom.

Nora Lee is a bigger story than "Chickie." It is a message for women of every age. Watch for it. The first chapter in The Boston American tomorrow.

50 'Y" GIRLS GIVE PLAYLET AT RALLY

The Blue Triangle, activities building for the Y. W. C. A. at No. 37 Huntington ave., was crowded for the first rally of the season. The play, "Ys Reasons' with a cast of fifty girls was presented. During the entr'acte stunts were introduced when members of the international department appeared in the peasant costumes of their native countries.

Following the play were refreshments and the guests participated in games and a New England square dances. Among the hostesses was Mrs. Charles W. Norby of the board of directors.

Paying to Hear La Follette

That Disturbs the "Better Element"

Fourteen thousand listened to La Follette's speech at New York recently, and half of them paid more than $12,600 for the privilege of hearing him. That disturbs the "better element." To find crowds actually paying good money to hear La Follette and not showing any great interest in hearing some "better class" candidate is certainly disturbing.

What annoyed and frightened stock speculators most in La Follette's speech was the statement that Government is "CONTROLLED BY THE FEW IN THE INTEREST OF FAVORED CLASSES TO WHICH SPECIAL PRIVILEGES ARE EXTENDED."

Isn't that true of this and practically every Government? Suppose La Follette were elected? That apparently is impossible, as things stand. He can't possibly get a majority of the Electoral College. If the election were thrown into the House everybody knows that Republicans and Democrats would combine, if necessary, to keep La Follette out.

But if La Follette WERE elected, the Government would still be "managed by a few in the interest of favored classes." Only La Follette would be the boss of the "few" and the "favored classes" would be his big crowd of farmers and workmen.

In England a few labor leaders are trying to run the government in the interest of the "favored class," which is labor.

In Russia a still smaller "few" run the country ostensibly in the interest of the "proletariat," which means all those that work for a living.

When the Czar was there "the few" managed the country in the interest of the grand dukes, land owners, bankers.

In every government "the few" run things for themselves and their crowd or try to. But whichever "few" happen to be in control they must pay reasonable attention to the many or things go to smash, as in Russia, under the Czar.

Don't Buy Europe's Bonds

Who Repudiates ONCE May Do It TWICE

Are you trying to buy "attractive German bonds," that will soon be brought from Europe in tens of millions? They will pay 8 per cent. interest, but think before you buy more than you can afford to lose.

Many American citizens bought German bonds—before we entered the war.

They now learn that Germany will arrange to pay something to people that bought those bonds in Germany. NOTHING AT ALL will be paid to those that bought the German bonds in AMERICA.

How long will it be before Europe finds, "with deepest regret," of course, that while she must take care of her own people and pay them as much as possible, it really isn't possible to pay anything to the AMERICANS that may make European investments, now or hereafter?

In addition, don't forget that the French, expecting to get their money out of German industries, have put a duty of 26 per cent. on everything that German workmen produce as it crosses the border into France. Other European nations may do the same. Where are the Germans to get the money to pay principal and interest on the bonds, to be sold in America, if they are not allowed to sell goods in other countries? They can't MANUFACTURE gold, and ONLY gold earned by German industry and shipments out of Germany can pay those bonds.

Investments IN AMERICA are not so bad. KEEP YOUR MONEY HERE.

W. J. Is Sincere

No Bootleg or Darwinism for Him

The New York Daily Mirror told how the sheriff of Cowlitz County, Washington, stopped an automobile and searched it for liquor. The occupant admitted that he was carrying bottled goods. These goods were mineral water and the occupant was William Jennings Bryan.

William Jennings Bryan, whatever else you think of him, is a man who lives up to his professions and practices what he preaches. You wouldn't find any liquor in his automobile, and you wouldn't find Darwin's "Descent of Man," unless he had it there to refute the monkey doctrine and carefully locked up to keep the children away from it.

Mr. Bryan probably would rather hand Zola a "Zaza" to a weanling child than let the child read Darwin. He'd make it a crime to teach Darwinism. He's sincere.

Not Made to Order

Knowledge Alone Means Peace

Ramsay MacDonald, naturally optimistic, having risen from workman to Prime Minister, says the League of Nations will prove to be the foundation of lasting peace. He adds the common sense demand that Germany be admitted to the League at once. Many leagues, probably, will grow and dissolve before permanent peace comes.

Just at present, there is much actual warfare going on in Europe. Murderers recently tried to kill Mussolini. Civil war is raging in China.

Permanent peace will come with universal education and real education, not the sort taught today.

News for the President

Does He Get It?

If Mr. Coolidge gets real news from California he knows that the recent Supreme Court decision there will very likely give the State to La Follette. Intelligent citizens do not like to be told that they can't, by petition, nominate their own candidates, but must accept candidates picked by a political convention.

President Coolidge also ought to know that some of the men supposed to be working for him in California are really devoting their time to "killing off Hiram Johnson," which isn't so easy, and building up their own fences for a campaign in 1928.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

ONCE, upon a time a man could enjoy feeling sorry for himself—and a woman could "suffer" beautifully—if she had on a becoming negligee.

Helen Rowland

A girl could revel in fainting spells, and drench herself in tears, and add to her popularity by singing Tosti's "Goodbye" with a sob in her throat.

* * *

In those lovely, melancholy days, coldness was considered beautiful and interesting"; and a young man with a curling forelock and a "secret sorrow" in his eyes could break half the feminine hearts in a great city.

* * *

But, now, you've gotta be GLAD! You've GOTTA be cheerful!

* * *

Worst of all, you've got to be FUNNY!

* * *

A professional humorist has got to keep stepping, to outrun the mob.

* * *

Everybody's so FUNNY!

* * *

You can't open your mouth to make a simple remark about the weather, or mention something in the obituary column, without being attacked by half a dozen "brilliant" canned epigrams.

* * *

If all the "wisecracking witticisms" hurled across the table at you, in one season, were put end to end, they would amount to—about one pale, tottering joke.

* * *

* * *

Grin, grin, grin! Oh, be joyful!

* * *

Doesn't it make you TIRED!

* * *

You are adjured to SMILE your way through a toothache, through the grippe, through the housecleaning, through a love-affair, through a funeral!

* * *

Even, after a quarrel with the man you loved—best-in-the-world-for-two-whole-weeks, you are expected to appear with a sunny smile in your eye, merrily humming: "T'was all very well to dissemble your love—but why did you throw me down stairs?"

* * *

Otherwise, you'll be classed as a dud!

* * *

"The smile that won't come off"—that's your cue! Be cynical, be silly, be cold-blooded—but don't be sad!

* * *

A sad song, a sad poem, or a sad play is no longer artistic, or touching or lovely. It's just a "tear-jerker." Isn't that pretty? And so funny! Ha, ha, ha! O, death where is thy sting!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Bigger Air Force Needed

Editor Boston American:

Being a reader of the Boston American, I want to congratulate you on your drive for modern protection through aviation. I happened to be in a position to see the necessity of a bigger air force. I served with honor and was wounded in the battle of battles, the Argonne Forest. I served two years in France with Co. M, 16th U. S. Infantry, First Division, Regular Army. Took part in all engagements until I was wounded, October 7, 1918. In all the engagements, I speak truthfully, I saw nothing but Maltese crosses over the American troops. Which, I assure you, wasn't very encouraging. It wasn't a pleasant sight to look in the air and see nothing but the enemy, especially when one's fighting for one's country. I am making myself plain in a true American way. If this letter will help any, please print it. EDWARD J. LEDDON.

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a good piano which I will sell for $25 to some kind reader. I am greatly in need of money, as my little girl was recently sent home from school for poor eyesight and must have glasses before she can go back. My oldest girl came from the hospital recently, and my little boy, three, has the croup very badly. He hasn't sufficient clothes to wear. He only has two thin waists and pants, and I am without fire most of the time. My rent is one month in arrears. With what money my husband earns, I try to pay some of my debts and buy a little food. My little girl, two years old, has no shoes. She wears stiff ankle shoes, size 4. Her toes are peeping through. The steels in the shoes are broken. She has had them since last Christmas.

Boy Wants Bike

Helping Hand Editor:

My little boy, eleven years old, has learned to ride his chum's bicycle and is bothering me to buy him one, but I cannot afford to get him a new one. I thought one of your reader's boys had one nearly new he would like to sell.

Would Part With Baby

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a young married woman separated from my husband, and would like to get work where I could have my baby, six months, with me. I am willing to work for five dollars a week. Or maybe some one would adopt her; then I would be able to do other work. The baby is a girl and no bother, so I could do housework or tend to children, but no cooking.

Cripple In Need

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a cripple, not able to do anything at all now, and there is no one to help me. I am so much in need of clothing. I would like a coat for Winter (size 52), as I have to go to the hospital on good days for dressings. I also need dresses and underwear and shoes size 7. I love to sew on patchwork, and anyone having pieces, I would be so glad to receive them. I lay in the hospital 10½ months, and things look pretty blue for us. I would be glad of anything. I can sew and make over and am willing to do anything, as I have to have $5 a week just for my druggist bill besides everything else. Please, someone, help me.

Baby to Board

Helping Hand Editor:

Is there any dear reader who can take my nine-months-old baby to board for a while until I can work and pay up my debts? I am a mother of two small children and my husband has left us. I can't live on what he sends, as he cannot be depended upon. All I can afford to pay is $3 a week for the baby's board, but there are some people who love children and don't care so much for the money part.

Children Need Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

My husband has T. B. and has not done any work for over two years, and I don't think he will ever be able to work again. Can any of your kind readers get me a position on a news-stand evenings, or any other kind of work, as I have three little children school age, girl 5 and boys 7 and 9. They need overcoats very badly. If any readers have a rug, bed clothing or a sewing machine I would appreciate them. I can make clothes.

MRS. E. R.

Needs Furniture

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a cripple widow with two grandchildren and a son 16, who has T. B. of the bones and can do only a little work to help me. I have a spare room I could let if I had a three-quarter or single bed, a dresser and a carpet or oil cloth for the room. This would help me in paying the rent. I have no means only what is given me.

INTELLECT A FRAIL INSTRUMENT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE intellect, for all that may be said of it, is a frail reed to lean upon.

It is a question whether it is governed more by traditions, customs, instincts and passions than by reason. Certain it is that unless there be some check upon the reason it is liable to lead us into all kinds of difficulty.

This was brought out by one of the experts in the Leopold and Loeb trial.

"The idea," said he, "for these master criminals was to do a good job. It was to be thoroughly and completely planned. There was to be no clew. An intellectual feat was to be accomplished."

In fact, the whole Leopold-Loeb case shows what the unaided intellect, solely depended upon, will lead us to. Unless there are sound instincts, underlying natural repulsions and attractions, that hold us to the mass of humanity and to decent conduct, the intelligence is liable to lead us astray.

People of very rudimentary intellect, grossly uneducated people, may, at the same time, be law-abiding and good neighbors. While the most dangerous rascal unhung is likely to be gifted with extraordinary powers.

The intellect is the cutting edge of a man. But, if the desires be wrong in the first place, the more intelligence he has the more capable he is of doing harm.

It is just like sharpening an axe. The training of the intellect is putting a good edge upon a piece of steel, but, if the steel itself is rotten, it makes no difference how well it is sharpened.

Whether the plea of mental deficiency, or moral deficiency, is a good one on the part of young Leopold and Loeb we do not presume to say, but we do dare to assert that a man is safest in sticking to the great moralities which he has inherited from the race. He is safer, far, in so doing than in blazing a new way for himself. He who is guided by the moralities is governed by laws that have slowly been developed by the evolution of mankind. He who is governed by his intelligence alone is under the charge of a faulty master.

This is not a plea for ignorance, nor any devil's argument in favor of the abandonment of reason. It is indeed a plea for a deeper education, the education of the morals more than of the brain.

EXTENDED WINTER ON PLANET MARS

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

ONE very interesting observation, at least, was made upon Mars during the recent opposition—it looks as though the ruddy-faced planet had just been having a cold time. It should be remembered that each of Mars's seasons is nearly twice as long as the corresponding season on the earth, because of the greater length of Mars's year, which is 687 days, or nearly 23 of our months.

The spectacle of Mars's seasonal changes is not confined to the moment of actual opposition, but continues for many months, before and after that critical point. So the astronomers who make a specialty of the study of Mars, began their observations last Spring, when the Martian Winter, in the planet's southern hemisphere, was in full blast, and at the beginning of June Antoniadi of the Meudon Observatory found that the south polar snow cap was enormously developed, having a diameter of 60 degrees, whereas usually its maximum diameter hardly exceeds 50 degrees.

This could only mean, if it is really snow that blankets the Martian poles—which can hardly be doubted—that that planet had been experiencing the rigors of an extraordinarily severe Winter.

But apparently rapid fluctuations of temperature were being encountered, such as we on the earth are not unacquainted with when a hard Winter unwillingly releases its grasp, for although by June 10 a perceptible shrinking of the great snow blanket was noted, yet on June 17 it had spread again to the vast diameter of 65 degrees.

"Then," says a report of the observations, "the southern polar snows were immense and very white." (Les neiges polaires australes se sont trouvees alors immense et tres blanches).

But as the spring sun came up with great ardor, recession soon set in, and it was estimated that at the date of the opposition the diameter of the snow cap would be reduced to less than 30 degrees. When reduced to a minimum, the snow cap becomes very small, retreats to one side of the pole, and on some occasions it has practically disappeared.

Of course, the ultimate source of the changes of temperature that occur on Mars must be found in fluctuations of the radiation of the sun. In that respect the great orb must treat all of its attendant planets alike, although the total quantity of heat that they derive from him is varied enormously by their different distances.

Mars gets less than half as much as the earth gets. With his evidently exceedingly thin atmosphere it would seem that he makes a very cold abode at the best, so that an uncommonly frigid Winter on Mars may have more tragic significance than on our more-favored planet.

In connection with this cold Winter on Mars, it may be recalled that within the past few years there have been indications of temporary failures by the sun to furnish his average dole of radiant energy to his planets.

If this should both increase and become chronic, there would surely be a strong demand for emigration rockets capable of carrying chilly people to Venus, where apparently tropical climates abound, and the "good old summertime" reigns amid scenes of unearthly beauty.

ONCE-OVERS

WHAT OF YOUR FUTURE—IS IT HOPEFUL OR HOPELESS?

When you think of your future does it appear to you hopeless or hopeful?

Do you see yourself in good health or as a helpless invalid?

Do you see yourself a failure and a dependent upon others for livelihood?

In other words, are your thoughts of the future gloomy and depressing?

You are not obliged to entertain such thoughts, you know, and the longer you encourage such musings the harder for your thoughts to travel in more cheerful channels.

What do you think today has more to do with your future than you realize.

If despair holds your thoughts now, your despondent moods will hinder your feeble efforts to improve or counterbalance the conditions you fear.

Why look upon the future as a formidable giant with jaws open to crush you when a cheerful attitude might counteract even disease?

Why poison yourself physically and mentally when you might tone your whole system with wholesome hopefulness and possibly ward off trouble?

It is not what we make it so much as how we take it. See the difference?
